

RE-OPENING OF LENORA MINE

INSPECTION OF IT IN NOW IN PROGRESS

E. Stables, Representing London Capital, is Here—May Begin Work This Fall

Preparations for the reopening of the Lenora copper mine and Mount Sicker railway are now well under way, and it is expected that the first ore will be taken out by the Vancouver Copper Company, the big English company which has acquired the mine, early in the fall.

E. Stables, who is to take charge of the mine, has been in the city for some time past, and has visited the property on several occasions. He has reported to the company in England, and will pay another visit of inspection next week. Mr. Stables, in conversation with a Times reporter to-day, said that while arrangements for the reopening of the mine were well in hand the formalities attending upon the acquisition of the property made it impossible to give any definite statement regarding the commencement of operations. He anticipated, however, that the work of reopening the plant would be commenced during the summer, and that ore would be taken out in the fall, or at the outside, before the end of the year.

The disposition of the mineral in the mine made it impossible to calculate with certainty the present value of the mine. The ore lies in virgin ground, and it was impossible to say ahead for any considerable length of time. The prospectus of the company, however, forecasts an output of 100 tons a day for at least 300 days in the year, or 42,000 tons a year. The ore is worth somewhere between $10 and $15 a ton, and a yearly revenue sufficient to give a profit of $225,000 is looked forward to. This estimate does not embrace the profits accruing from the sale of lands on the other side of the Mount Sicker railway. The working capital of the company amounts to $150,000, and this is considered ample for the profitable operation of the mine, which was closed on account of a lack of working capital.

The railway, which connects the mine to Crofton and crosses the E. & N., will furnish the company with adequate transportation, and will connect it with most of the smelting works.

The mine was first opened up in 1890, and is still equipped with the original plant. The machinery, however, after lying in disuse for nearly three years, will need considerable repairing, and this, as stated above, will most likely be commenced during the summer.

The Vancouver Copper Company was formed in London, Eng., early this year. It is backed by many of the most prominent men in Great Britain, and shares to the value of $5,000,000 at a par value of $5. It has been placed on the market. With this sound financial support and the enterprise which attaches to the company there should be no difficulty in making the future of the mine a most successful one.

JAPANESE IN FRISCO.

Reports Have Reached Japan of Further Discrimination on Part of Civic Authorities.

(Associated Press.)
Tokyo, June 29.—Another serious report of anti-Japanese feeling in San Francisco has been received here to the effect that the city authorities have placed an embargo on Japanese engaged in the business of intelligence agencies and have also refused licenses of any kind, thus preventing them from engaging in any other business than that of a purely commercial character. Should the report be confirmed it will serve to confirm the belief here that the display of anti-Japanese feeling in that city is based on racial prejudice.

TELEGRAPHERS' STRIKE.

United States Labor Commissioner is Trying to Bring About Peace.

(Associated Press.)
New York, June 28.—United States Labor Commissioner Chas. P. Neill came here from Washington yesterday in connection with the strike of the telegraphers in San Francisco. He called on officials of the Western Union and Postal Companies, and also had the national leader of the Telegraph Union, who were in New York, before him. This is Mr. Neill's second visit to New York in the effort to bring about peace.

KILLED SISTER-IN-LAW.

Family Fight Resulted in Death of One Woman.

Warrensburg, Mo., June 28.—In a family fight last night near Bristol Ridge, a small settlement six miles southeast of Warrensburg, Mrs. Walter Herd killed Mrs. James Herd, a sister-in-law, slashing her with a butcher knife. According to reports, the women, with their husbands, had been drinking and a quarrel ensued. The women led the fight. Mrs. Walter Herd was struck on the head and throat in a horrible manner and causing a wound from which she died.

At a meeting of the governors of the London hospital, it was stated the daily average of patients in the war was 260.

"HEALER" CONVICTED.

Neglected to Call a Physician to Attend Daughter Who Suffered From Pneumonia.

New York, June 28.—Clarence W. Byrnes, salesman, was pronounced guilty yesterday of failing to call a physician to his six-year-old daughter Violet during her fatal illness. Byrnes calls himself a "healer." He will be sentenced July 12th. According to the testimony of the coroner, a physician, Dr. Umberto E. Weston, who performed an autopsy, the girl died of pneumonia from which she suffered four days.

TRANSPORTATION OF ALIENS.

(Associated Press.)
Washington, June 28.—Secretary Straus, of the department of commerce and labor, ratified for the government yesterday the agreement entered into between the Bureau of Immigration and the Canadian transportation lines respecting the transportation of aliens from Canada, who intend to come to America. The agreement was made to conform to the immigration law enacted at the last session of congress.

TERRORISTS ARE REORGANIZING

PREPARING FOR ACTIVE CAMPAIGN

Executive Committee of Party Refused to Sanction Attempt on Life of Czar.

St. Petersburg, June 29.—It is learned from Russian revolutionary sources that the social revolutionary party a month ago revived the old Terrorists organization that had been suffered to lapse since the congress in Finland during the spring of 1906, and placed Gregory Gershinovich, who escaped from Siberia last year, and Savinkoff, who escaped from Sebastopol in 1905, the most organizers of the party. The sum of $40,000 monthly was assigned for espionage, preparation of bombs, etc., from the treasury, which recently received more than $400,000 from the cashier of the sub-treasury of Samarkand, a Social Revolutionary, who escaped $400,000. The headquarters of the Terrorists, as usual, are located outside. Through an attempt on Premier Stolypin, while entering or leaving Tauride Palace, is believed to have been feasible. The Terrorists abstained from activity while Parliament was in session, which a representative of the party disavowed from the tribune of the lower house of Parliament. The recent crimes, it is added, were the work of the so-called "local flying detachments," operating independently of the main organization.

Terrorists, it is reported, now contemplate attempts upon Premier Stolypin and Emperor Nicholas, but the latter has not been sanctioned by the executive committee of the party.

It is also reported that Terrorists are planning an important robbery from which a large amount of booty is expected.

The openness with which the plans are discussed astonishes foreigners unacquainted with the methods of the old organization, which never concealed the names of its intended victims.

Reinforcements for Frontier.

St. Petersburg, June 27.—On account of the anarchical conditions in Turkish Armenia, where much of the fighting between Mussulmans and Armenians has been Russian troops upon the Turkish frontier, have been heavily strengthened to prevent the transmission of agitation to Russian territory and also for moral effect on the Turkish government. A repetition of the Armenian massacres of 1896, when thousands of Armenian refugees crossed the frontier and settled in Southern Caucasus, is feared.

AFRICAN EXPLORER SUES NEWSPAPER

Dr. Peters is Unpopular in Munich and Has Been Assaulted Several Times.

(Associated Press.)
Munich, Bavaria, June 28.—Dr. Peters, the African explorer, who is suing the Munchener Post for calumny, is so unpopular that the authorities are obliged to protect him coming to and going from court. Several assaults on him have already taken place. One man had been arrested for throwing the doctor from a street car and attempting to stab him.

Yesterday's hearing in the suit was confined to expressions of opinions by persons who have had experience in a field where Dr. Peters is active. According to the theory of a necessity for harshness toward the natives. Some of the witnesses, however, said they considered the position of the Peters expedition called for stern measures. The case went over until next Monday.

BIG FOUR OFF FOR BUCHANAN CUP

Oarsmen From Famous J. B. A. A. Club Leave This Evening Confident of Success at Pacific Coast Meet on Lake Washington.

Trained to the hour and with the utmost confidence of success, the J. B. A. A. Big Four, accompanied by the juniors and several of their club mates, leave for Seattle to-night. On Thursday the second day of the N. P. A. A. O. regatta, the big race for the Pacific Northwest championship for fours for the privilege of holding the Buchanan Cup for a year will take place on Lake Washington.

Victoria's star crew will have three days to become thoroughly acquainted with the course. To-morrow it will have its first outing there. On each of the subsequent days prior to the big event the boys will have a spin over twelve years ago the crew was first organized. In each of those twelve years it has competed in the championship race and on no less than nine occasions it has earned winning brackets.

It is curious that in all similar series of events the thoughts of the older members of the club should revert to the first historic struggle. And so it is once more in the case of the Blue Ribbon of the Pacific Coast in rowing that the thoughts of Dan O'Sullivan should hark back to that first great victory twelve years ago in Esquimalt harbor.

"We were nervous," he said, "but doggedly nervous. We had not the combination. The crew in this year was composed as follows: Dan O'Sullivan, stroke; O. T. Jones, No. 2; J. Bridgman, No. 3; and J. D. Watson, bow.

Once more in 1902 victory attended the efforts of the "Big Four," and on this occasion the Victorians struck a winning vein which carried them to victory in four successive years. In the first year, 1902, the club put up a performance which has perhaps never been equaled in the annals of rowing. The race that year was held at Nelson. On the first day of the regatta the Victoria representatives who were really a crew of stridlings, raced in the junior the course and Thursday will see them fit to row for a kingdom.

"In my opinion the chances of victory are first rate," says Dan O'Sullivan, the father of rowing in Victoria. "They will bring back the cup to this city. For the past five weeks they have been rowing together and are in splendid fettle. They have been in training since the 1st of May and through three of the men are new to senior competition, that is nothing in their championship." The J. B. A. A. boys will be accompanied to Seattle by Phil Austin, who will look after them during the regatta.

gatta. Needless to say, the popular Dan will also be present on the day of the famous race. Throughout the season he has been coaching the boys, and as he says, has implicit confidence in their prowess. Trainer Judges will be present at the historic event and will continue his work during the trial spin on Lake Washington. Last night the "Big Four" had its final spin on home waters, and in the opinion of those present, went better than ever. There is every reason to believe that Victoria's crew will return victorious and add yet another laurel to the famous J. B. A. A.

For the history of the J. B. A. A. "Big Four" is a record of success. Some of the crew were first organized twelve years ago. In each of those twelve years it has competed in the championship race and on no less than nine occasions it has earned winning brackets. It is curious that in all similar series of events the thoughts of the older members of the club should revert to the first historic struggle. And so it is once more in the case of the Blue Ribbon of the Pacific Coast in rowing that the thoughts of Dan O'Sullivan should hark back to that first great victory twelve years ago in Esquimalt harbor.

The "Big Four" in that famous Esquimalt race which opened the book of history on which so many glorious pages were to be written, were Dan O'Sullivan, stroke; W. T. Scott, No. 2; D. T. Jones, No. 3; and J. D. Watson, bow. This was in 1895. The following year saw one change in the crew. E. S. Widdowson replaced Watson at bow. The following four years the "Big Four" pulled without change in its ranks, and on each occasion it won with consummate ease. The actual performances are too numerous to dwell upon, and it is sufficient to say that during the first five years of its career the J. B. A. A. never tasted defeat, and during that time won the C. P. R. Cup (three times) and thereby in perpetuity, the Association Cup (twice), and thereby in perpetuity.

In 1900 the famous combination was broken up. Scott, who pulled No. 2, went to South Africa, where he met death in the cause of Empire. A new crew was formed, composed as follows: D. McNeil, stroke; W. Laing, No. 2; W. Donaldson, No. 3; W. H. Jesse, bow. With this crew for the first time in its history, the J. B. A. A. went down to defeat at the hands of Portland. The following year disaster also attended its efforts, and at Shawinigan Lake Portland was again victorious. On this occasion the "Big Four" had exceptional luck. During the last week one of the men broke down whilst training up to the last 100 yards, they were beaten at the finish by half a length. In this year Dan O'Sullivan once more was one of the crew, having come in almost at the last moment to make up the combination. The crew in this year was composed as follows: Dan O'Sullivan, stroke; O. T. Jones, No. 2; J. Bridgman, No. 3; and J. D. Watson, bow.

Once more in 1902 victory attended the efforts of the "Big Four," and on this occasion the Victorians struck a winning vein which carried them to victory in four successive years. In the first year, 1902, the club put up a performance which has perhaps never been equaled in the annals of rowing. The race that year was held at Nelson. On the first day of the regatta the Victoria representatives who were really a crew of stridlings, raced in the junior ians, the names of the youngsters being: W. W. Wilson, stroke; C. B. Kennedy, No. 2; H. C. Briggs, No. 3; and L. Gill, bow.

In 1903 Briggs and Gill dropped out of the 1902 crew, their places being taken by Dillabough and W. Jesse. Right up to 1905, inclusive, victory followed victory until on the Pacific Coast the J. B. A. A. boys were thought to be invincible. During these years by winning threetimes in succession the club gained possession of the Hiram Walker Cup.

Last year again saw disruption in the Big Four. Two changes were made in the crew. The regatta was held at Nelson and Portland proved victorious. The Victoria crew was C. B. Kennedy, stroke; C. S. Finlayson, No. 2; P. Austin, No. 3, and W. H. Jesse, bow.

This brings the record of the club up to the present year, a year when interest has risen to a high pitch. Only one of last year's crew is rowing on Lake Washington, Jesse at bow. All the others are new names, new at least to fame in the annals of rowing on the Pacific. If, however, the opinion of Dan O'Sullivan goes for anything, and there is no better judge of racing merit on the Pacific coast, or indeed in the wide Dominion, this year's Big Four will be another of the famous combinations which have made history.

A word of praise to Dan O'Sullivan is not out of place here. To him is due in large measure the credit of forming the J. B. A. A. rowing club. He has followed the fortunes of the Big Four through all its changes and when not rowing himself, year in and year out, he has been coaching the boys. To his

IS ANXIOUS TO CONCLUDE CASE

JUDGE WOOD OPPOSED TO ANY DELAY

Rebuttal Testimony in the Haywood Trail May Be Concluded Next Week.

(Associated Press.)

Boise, Idaho, June 29.—Departing from the rule established by Judge Wood, when the Haywood trial commenced, the sitting-to-day will continue through two sessions. Up to the present Saturday has been a half holiday, but Judge Wood is anxious to conclude the case as early as possible in July and to-day will waste no time. This morning the defence continues the evidence on Orchard's alleged experience in the Coeur d'Alene and witnesses will endeavor to disprove an statement that he was one of the men who blew up the Bunker mine.

The state is congratulating itself on the admission yesterday by a former member of the executive board of the Western Federation of Miners, D. A. Copley, who said that while he was in Frisco, Orchard claimed to have some connection with the explosion at the Bradley residence. It also expressed satisfaction over the admission by Copley that Gregory, who Orchard says he murdered in Denver, was a detective for the mine owners. The state has been so far unable to get before the jury any reason for the killing of Gregory.

On the other hand counsel for the defence do not hesitate to express much jubilation over the testimony of the Scotchman, Thomas Wood, who was the first man to go over the ground in the vindicator mine after the explosion and after the killing of Beck and McCormick. His evidence went to prove that the explosion was due to an accident. The inference is that McCormick took the box containing 25 pounds of dynamite with him when he left the eighth level to go to the sixth, and a pistol carried by Beck accidentally exploded setting off the dynamite. It is now expected that the defence will have finished the direct evidence before the adjournment for the Fourth. In this event the rebuttal testimony may be concluded by the end of next week.

CROPS IN NORTHWEST.

(Special to the Times.)
Ottawa, June 28.—A bulletin issued by the census department to-day dealt with the progress of the Northwest. The area in crop in the three provinces increased from 3,491,415 acres in 1906, to 4,395,190 acres in 1906, and to 6,915,111 acres in 1906. The yield of the three crops increased from 42,352,664 bushels in 1906 to 132,244,929 bushels in 1906 and to 240,439,098 bushels in 1906.

RUN DOWN BY AN EXPRESS TRAIN

Carriage Wrecked on Railway Crossing—One of Occupants Killed and Two Injured

(Associated Press.)

Danbury, Conn., June 28.—Mrs. A. Coke Seelye was killed and two of her companions, Mrs. Geo. Decker and Howard S. Hoyt, were badly injured when the Pittsfield express struck the carriage containing them as it was crossing the track of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad at Bethel last night. A fourth occupant of the carriage, Mrs. Ed. Rosevear, daughter of Mrs. Seelye, jumped as the train struck the carriage, and escaped injury.

All the members of the party were seen this morning and are well known. Mrs. Seelye was about sixty years of age, wife of the former postmaster of Danbury and a member of a prominent family. Mr. Hoyt is a wealthy retired business man. It is expected he will recover, as will Mrs. Decker.

PICNICS FOR DOMINION DAY

A GENERAL EXODUS FROM VICTORIA CITY

Railway and Steamship Facilities to Be Provided and Special Rates in Operation.

There is every indication that Dominion Day will be passed with the customary quietude in the city. As in former years the customary exodus will take place. Nearly all the Sunday schools have organized picnics, and these will not be confined to the youngsters, but will also be patronized by the older and more staid folk. Others in the city will go to Vancouver, where celebrations will ensue.

To cope with the general exodus which will take place the Canadian Pacific railway has arranged a series of excursions for the holiday makers. Special rates will go into force on the steamer Princess Victoria and the Charmer. These vessels will run on their usual schedule.

Along the line of the E. & N. railway, excursion rates will come into force to all points, and an afternoon train service, similar to Saturdays and Sundays, has been arranged.

An outing which will be most enjoyable, proved a very enjoyable one is the excursion arranged to witness the regatta and water carnival at Cowichan Bay. The City of Nanaimo will sail from the C. P. R. docks at 9 a.m. on Monday and returning will arrive at about 2:30 p.m., and granted fine weather the trip will be most enjoyable, especially through the picturesque gulf islands. The City of Nanaimo is an ideal excursion steamer, having large roomy decks, while on the smooth inland gulf waters there is absolutely no motion to be experienced. No doubt the town will have a somewhat deserted appearance on Monday, which is only to be expected when there are so many attractive outings in store for the holiday seekers.

The annual picnic of Calvary Baptist and the Victoria West and Burnside Mission Sunday schools will be held on Monday at Fisher's beach, Esquimalt. Special cars will leave from Herald and Douglas streets at 9 a.m. and 10 a.m., and committees have arranged for all who attend to have an enjoyable time.

The First Congregational has also organized a picnic for young and old. The place where it will be held is White Lady Beach, on the far side of Esquimalt harbor. Cars will leave the church at 10 a.m. for the Esquimalt dock, where transportation will be provided to White Lady Beach. A programme of sports for people of all ages, both ladies and gentlemen, has been drawn up, while refreshments will be served. The outing will last nearly all day, the excursionists returning to the city about 9 o'clock.

St. Andrew's and the First Presbyterian churches will hold their annual picnic Sunday school picnic at Goldstream on Monday. There is no more desirable place than Goldstream for an outing, and the committees in charge are making every effort to provide for the comfort and convenience of those attending. Trains will leave the E. & N. station at 8 a.m. and 10 a.m., and 1:30 p.m., returning at 5, 7:22 and 8:30 p.m.

As before announced, the Centennial Methodist church will hold its usual outing of Bazan Park, Sidney. Trains will leave the V. & S. station at 8:15 a.m. and 3 p.m. on Monday. There will be sports for young and old, and refreshments will be provided. Those not belonging to the church can join the picnic by a payment of 50 cents.

The Spring Ridge Methodist Sunday school people are making elaborate arrangements for their annual excursion and picnic to take place at Bazan Bay on Monday. Every convenience has been made for the comfort of passengers in the way of refreshments of all kinds. Hot water will be obtainable free to all. Trains leave Victoria & Sidney station at 8:15 a.m. and 3 p.m.

At Macaulay Point, by kind permission of the Hudson's Bay Company, the Emmanuel Baptist Sunday school will hold its picnic. Special cars will leave the church at 8 a.m. and 10 a.m. The customary sports will form part of the entertainment, while refreshments will be provided for the day's outing. Both young and old are invited to the picnic.

JURY DISAGREED.

Findlay, Ohio, June 28.—The jury in the case of the state of Ohio against the Standard Oil Company, charged with violating the anti-trust laws, today reported a disagreement and was discharged.

RECEIVER APPOINTED.

Chicago, June 28.—A receiver has been appointed for the Marquette Mutual Life Insurance Co., of this city, with outstanding insurance of more than one million dollars.

INSPECTION OF CANNED GOODS.

(Special to the Times.)
Ottawa, June 29.—The Canned Goods and Meat Inspection Act will not come into effect until September 1st.

In 1885 the total expenditure of Europe on armaments was only $38,000,000. To-day it is $300,000,000. At the present rate of increase it will be by 1909 about $800,000,000.

TOTTERING TOWN.

Earthquake Effects Caused by Mining Operations—Houses Are Falling to Pieces.

Extensive coal mining operations under the town have created a serious situation at Motherwell, Lanarkshire.

At a meeting of the town council member said the town hall was damaged, the school buildings were damaged, and now, as a crowning injury, their brand new poorhouse was in serious danger of collapse.
Streets and pavements formed at great expense could be seen opening up and gaping in all parts of the town. Working men's houses, built by the savings of a lifetime, had had to be rebuilt twice over,

and now for the third time were again in process of falling to pieces.

BODE'S GUM

THE ROMANCE OF DYNAMITE.

It might have been supposed that this explosion was to a sort of gaseous emanation, but Nobel knew better. Instead, as he reasoned, the liquid had been partially vaporized and very finely divided particles of nitro-glycerine were floating in the atmosphere. Each separate particle was thus in direct contact with the air which furnished the oxygen necessary for the explosion. Nobel understood very well that he was on the trail of a great discovery, but as vaporized nitro-glycerine would be even more unsatisfactory as a practical explosive than liquid, he turned his attention to the other mixture which he had accidentally made. He soon found that mixture with the earth divided the liquid into sufficiently fine particles, and that the earth retained enough air to make explosion a certainly under proper conditions. He learned this applying dynamite, and a scientific term, "What he really did, probably, was to pound a percussion cap that had been placed in contact with or inside the mixture. The spark from the cap reached the finely divided nitro-glycerine, and it went off with a big noise. When he had gone thus far, Nobel had developed what is now known the world over as dynamite, though it has been vastly improved since then.

Russia has 55,000 miles of navigable rivers, and by the latest accounts the traffic on these waters is 30,000,000 tons a year. She has 33,000 miles of railway open.

BIG FOUR OFF FOR BUCHANAN CUP

experience most of the victories are due. He has no superior as a sportsman in the city of Victoria and the enthusiasm which he displays with reference to the Victoria boys who will row on Lake Washington is sufficient augury of success.

Of the rest of the crews engaged in Thursday's big race little is known.
The crew which represent Portland, last year's winners, are the same combination which pulled in the junior event last year. Seattle has selected for the junior event four out of the eight who defeated Stanford University this year and are hopeful of winning and entering for the big event.
Vancouver has already been seen in this city when on Victoria Day. It gained a victory over the J. B. A. A. juniors on the Gorge Inlet. Nelson, in the junior event is said to be a fast combination, but it has not been tried this season. Taken all round the crews entered for the championship event
this year are in great measure unknown quantities.

The Buchanan cup, upon which the name of Thursday's winner will be inscribed, cannot be won outright, but each winning crew has the right to hold it for a year. It is of a massive character, presented by the well known Scottish whisky distillers and is somewhere in the neighborhood of $500.
The Victoria contingent during its stay in Seattle will have rooms at the Standard hotel. In all some nineteen members of the J. B. A. A. will make the trip to Lake Washington. The Victoria juniors have undergone a thorough training and are very hopeful of victory. W. N. Kennedy a junior scul-ler, will compete for the J. B. A. A. at the regatta. He has shown promising form in his trial spins and the local enthusiasts are very hopeful that he will secure the junior sculls for the city. The following is a full list of the crews entered:

TOUGH.
Tommy Snail—Dere it is again! I've bin gorn' around all day and dems do only kind er signa I've seen.

London gets let rainy days out of the year, but yet rolled in 1,229 sunny hours in the course of the year. If all the rain lay where it fell, London would be two feet under water by the end of the year.

Whirlpools are really circular currents of water produced by winds or other currents.

We have on file in our office over 200
letters from druggists who have sold Foot Elm for years in all parts of the Dominion, and every letter speaks with great enthusiasm as to the entire satisfaction Foot Elm gives their customers.

Do not let anyone persuade you to take something else. Foot Elm contains no injurious ingredients to dry up the feet and crack the leather of your shoes like many imitations.
"I make the feet healthy; and makes your shoes wear longer, and it prevents the leather from cutting and cracking."

Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer is Healthful

Because it is brewed from Pabst Eight-Day Malt and choicest hops.

Malt is made from barley—
the most nourishing of all grains.

The Pabst Eight-Day Malting Process gets all of these nourishing properties out of the barley-grain, and the Pabst Brewing Methods retain them all in

Pabst Blue Ribbon The Beer of Quality

which is therefore richer in food values than other beers.
In addition, it has the exquisite flavor of the choicest hops, with all of their tonic properties.

Pabst malts for food values.
Pabst brews for health qualities. The name Pabst guarantees both purity and excellence.

When ordering beer, ask for Pabst Blue Ribbon.

Made by Pabst at Milwaukee
And bottled only at the Brewery.

FIRST CHANCE FROM THE MANUFACTURERS, OWING TO THE FACT OF OUR BEING THE LARGEST PURCHASERS IN THE WEST, MEANS THAT

Our Customers Secure the Biggest July Bargains

FOR MANY YEARS our summer clearance has made July the busiest month of the year and the larger the business grows the more necessary it is to clear stock in this way, and be ready for new goods that are constantly being sent us from the fashion centres of the world. Being the largest distributors of merchandise in the West, we are able to get first chance, and our offers are usually accepted for "clearing lines" from the manufacturers at this season of the year. This feature is perhaps the most interesting as it enables our customers to purchase at greatly reduced prices stylish goods that are wanted for present wear. In previous years we have had departmental sales during the month at various times. This year all departments get into line at the same time.

AND WE EXPECT SUCH A SALE, THAT WILL CROWD THE BIG STORE AS NEVER BEFORE

Dress Goods Department

We do not remember having such startling values to offer our customers. The lateness in arrival has something to do with the low prices, and prices are made with the object of not having a piece of Spring Tweeds in stock at the end of July.

DOMINION DAY.

Monday next will be the fortieth anniversary of the birth of Canada as a confederation. Our people from ocean to ocean will celebrate the event which marks the birthday of the nation that is destined to become one of the greatest of the powers of the world with greater enthusiasm than ever because they realize that the days of experimentation have been safely passed—that the dangers which beset young youth have been successfully avoided, and that with the experiences of the past to guide them in their further course the future of their country is assured. Now that the period of perils lies behind us, the fact may be candidly admitted that the foundations of Canada were laid in doubt and misgiving by the Fathers of the Confederation. Previous to 1867 several experiments had been undertaken for the purpose of solving the problem of governing in the British Colonies of North America. Those experiments failed because of the natural jealousies of a population of mixed nationalities and divergent views. The legislative union of Upper and Lower Canada simply served to accentuate the difficulties of the situation with which the British and Colonial statesmen of the time were called upon to deal. Nova Scotia and New Brunswick were loth to surrender their local autonomy and independence in order to further the scheme of a united British America, grand though the project appeared to the men of great faith and prescient vision who were its chief advocates. But the end was ultimately attained, although the means resorted to to bring it about were considered at the time somewhat high-handed and arbitrary. To-day, when the great confederation extends from the Atlantic to the Pacific, when not a single person within the confederation or out of it can survey the completed work without pronouncing it good, when but one sentiment animates the breast of the Canadian of French origin in quaint old Quebec, of the Canadian of British origin in the other eastern provinces, of the equally ardent Canadian in British Columbia, or of the new Canadian in the lately created provinces of the Northwest, is there not substantial ground for the feeling of jubilation with which the coming anniversary is regarded?

It is true an occasional note of discord is heard in the grand chorus of hope and confidence. The politician whose position depends upon the continuation of fast-disappearing sectional and sectarian prejudice raises a wall of doubt about the future, and his feeble cry is echoed by a few Doubting Thomases who affect to foresee the possibility of disaster to British connection in the great stream of strangers from strange lands which is flowing with increasing force into the Northwest. But the pessimists are put to confusion by the known facts. The liberties of Canadians are too strongly guaranteed by our system of government for them ever to be assailed, much less subverted, by any ecclesiastical system, however powerful. On this point we shall take the liberty to quote a few sentences from the speech of Hon. Rudolph Lemieux, the Canadian Postmaster-General, who was responsible for the change in our postal regulations which gave British publishers a preference in Canada over the publishers of the United States, a speech which might be read with profit by Dr. Sproule and other professional patriots on the opposition side of Parliament. Mr. Lemieux said, addressing an Ontario audience recently:

"Much has been said against Sir Wilfrid Laurier in certain places. Let me tell you that no man has done more to harmonize the two races, not only by his eloquent words which are inspired by high ideals, but because no man has made British institutions more respected among the people of his own race."

"You are told sometimes in Ontario and the other English-speaking provinces that we in Quebec are not truly loyal. I assure you from the bottom of my heart that you need not be afraid of Quebec. Our loyalty does not spring from our lips, but from our hearts. We, the French-Canadians, have been given a sacred trust inherited from our ancestors. We have received from them a creed to which we are attached as you are attached to your Protestant faith. We must all respect the beliefs of others, as we must respect the beliefs of ourselves. We must respect that creed which teaches us to fear God and at the same time respect the law of the land in which we live. We have received from our ancestors interesting memories of the past. Is there anyone among the people of Ontario who would refuse to any French-Canadian the right to speak his own language which his mother taught him at her knees? We have received from our ancestors the spirit of chivalry which belongs and pertains to the French race, and that very spirit is the best guarantee of our loyalty, because the two go together. No Reformers of Ontario, do not be misled by appeals which are often made to you. The French-Canadians are loyal. They will cling to British institutions more than will the people of the Anglo-Saxon race. Their ancestors had been abandoned 150 years ago after the historic struggle on the Plains of Abraham. They were defeated in that last memorable struggle. But, sir, in the old regime they were ruled by an autocracy. They did not know what self-government was, but since the passing of the Quebec act in 1774, an act which was passed by a Protestant Legislature at the time when the Blue Laws were in existence in thirteen colonies, when in Scotland Protestants were denied privileges they enjoy to-day, they had been free men. Parliament passed the Quebec act in order to give our forefathers the rights and franchises which they enjoy to-day."

"Do you think they would exchange the rights and liberties which they enjoy under the Union Jack, under the benign inspiration of the British flag, and renounce their allegiance to the British throne to pass under the dominion of Roosevelt, a man whom personally I respect most highly? If the French-Canadians belonged to the republic to-morrow they would be swallowed up in the mixed population of the United States. No, we have all our franchises under the British Crown. We cling to them. We are more attached to them, perhaps, than you are yourselves. Therefore, you need not fear for the vain appeals sometimes made to you in order to stir up bad feelings."

If Canadians were given to the habit of expressing their sentiments in "orations" upon the day they delight to honor above all other days in the calendar, men of the stamp and character and genius for poetical expression of Hon. Rudolph Lemieux might with propriety be selected for the task. As for the mingling that the new settlers arriving in the Northwest are a menace to British sentiment and British institutions, that proposition is met by the fact that the immigrants are taking the oath of British citizenship just as quickly as they can qualify. One year ago a Winnipeg newspaper said: As regards the attitude of the people who reside here, both those who are sons of the soil and those who are sons by adoption, Canada occupies a unique position. There is no race war, except in the minds of a few motley-looking politicians, and there is absolutely no disaffection existing among any class or race towards the laws of the land or the flag that floats over it. Deep in the hearts of the people there is a fervent affection for their country. The newcomers are scarcely settled before they are as loyal-Canadians as those who are native born. The Dominion of Canada means much more to-day than it did at the time of confederation. It is now the term describing a country stretching from ocean to ocean—a country peopled by various races but bound together in the sympathy induced by common interests. Canada is no longer an insignificant, unknown region torn by warring factions and deep-rooted feuds. The Dominion to-day is attracting world-wide attention. Its resources and capabilities have been abundantly shown forth. Besides its material attractions it possesses a system of government unsurpassed in the world. The social life of the country is such as to appeal to the best and most worthy people who are seeking a new home. Uprightness, character, and ability are all that is required to climb to the highest positions. The Dominion to-day stands pre-eminent among those nations of the world that are holding out inducements to home-seekers."

GREED AND MORAL TURPITUDE.

In a lecture recently delivered to a body of students, Secretary Root of President Roosevelt's cabinet, argued that recent revelations in San Francisco, Harrisburg, Pa., and numerous other municipalities in the United States, did not necessarily imply that the public men of the present day were of lower moral stature than their predecessors. The fact, he according to Mr. Root, that by reason of the increasing wealth and population of the country, franchises and privileges are becoming of great value, the avariceous rich are more eager to acquire them and are willing to pay for them, while better means of communication and a vigilant press increase the probability of the grafters being found out. Boss Tweed and his ring of operators set the first example of municipal graft on this continent; and if their works were not of such magnitude as those of their twentieth century successors, that was because their opportunities were comparatively limited. Also the boss was either a coarse manipulator or he was not so well advised as his descendants. He was found out, jailed and banished. That implies at least that public opinion was more powerful in the early days of graft or that the tricks, subterfuges and technicalities of the law could not so successfully be taken advantage of. The press to-day is doing its duty in exposing fraud, corruption and all manner of municipal and corporate uncleanness, but those entrusted by the people with the enforcement of the law are either lax in their efforts to have condign punishment inflicted, have in communion with officialdom generally been retained in the service of the manipulators, or the public at large is amused at the "smartness" of the ministers of "justice" in raising legal obstacles to the course of the law. At all events, it is a very rare thing indeed for grafters to go to jail. No one seriously looks for the imprisonment of Mayor Schmitt of San Francisco or the punishment of the equally guilty millionaire franchise hunters who will in the future benefit from his corrupt regime. Consequently we fear the facts do not sustain the position of Secretary Root. If the people of the United States have not deteriorated morally, if they are as fully conscious of their moral responsibility for all the iniquities which appear to be inherent in municipal government as they ought to be, how are we to account for the impotence of justice?

The fact is only too apparent that the moral obliquity characteristic of the management of the affairs of large cities in the States permeates and is demoralizing all the elements of business life. The making of millionaires is going on apace at the expense of the general community and working forces of the population. The rise of the great Standard Oil Company may be cited as an example of a condition of affairs which is general—a conspiracy of railway companies and other powerful institutions to foster monopoly and crush the life out of individual competition. Thus, an American newspaper explains: The Standard Oil monopoly, flowing only one-sixth of the country's crude oil, produced in 1904 more than 56 per cent. of its refined oil and maintained a similar proportion of the export trade. Its motto is, "Let who will produce the oil; we alone shall buy it and handle it and sell it—all at our own prices." The immediate problem is raised by the Standard's issuing defiance to the United States. It does this by failing to file tariffs; by refusing to transport oil for others; by filing misleading and useless tariffs, such as to Unionville, N. Y., instead of to New York Harbor; by insisting upon unreasonably large shipments; by suppressing statistical information; by maintaining rate agreements with railroads at prices prohibitive above the legitimate pipe-line cost.

"The Government will now attempt through the Department of Justice to subject this giant rebel against authority to the common-carrier obligations of the 1906 rate law. No undertaking of the Roosevelt Administration more heartily commends it to the gratitude of the people."

The Roosevelt administration has been going to accomplish wondrous things and to grind monopoly into fine powder; but the Roosevelt administration is rapidly drawing to a close and monopoly is no less arrogant to-day than it was seven years ago. The Standard Oil Company is still doing business in the old way. It is receiving special favors from railway companies and putting rival concerns to sleep. Generally the list of millionaires is growing at a tremendous rate. We shall see what President Roosevelt does to crown his career previous to retiring into the solitude waiting all who have had the privilege of living for a term or two in the White House.

We are not in the least surprised that our friend Capt. Clive Phillips-Wolley hastens to take up the Big Stick in defence of the character for sportsmanship of his friend and fellow big game hunter, President Roosevelt. The president is a fine type of man, a statesman or a sportsman. Men of his character are the salt of the earth and the chief bulwark of nations. We hope he may come to British Columbia for his next trip and that he may take the Captain along with him. They would constitute a fine company, but we fear it would be bad for the grizzlies of the Canadian Rockies the day they joined their puissant forces. Of course we knew full well that the base newspaper scribbles who originated the yarn about the president shooting bears tied to trees were uttering a mean libel. But if Mr. Roosevelt's fellow-countrymen choose to indulge in a little pleasantry at the expense of the mighty hunter and world-renowned statesman, why should we be debarred from a similar privilege?

Mark Twain is now reaping the reward of diligence in his business of writing books. He stands before kings. But if Samuel L. Clemens had been equally diligent in his original business of piloting steamboats on the raging Mississippi it is doubtful if he could ever have attained to the dignity of standing before presidents.

The staff of the Times, following the example of all loyal citizens of Canada, will join in the celebration of the young nation's birthday on Monday. There will consequently be no issue of the paper.

What Other People Think

SPRINKLING HOURS.

To the Editor—I was much pleased to read ex-Mayor Redfern's letter about the water question in to-night's Times, and fully agree with him on all points therein. The time limits laid down by the water commissioner are quite prohibitive owing to the fact that we men, who have to work for the needed dollars, are at our work during the hours laid down. And then as to our women folk doing the watering, if they do during these hours, how are they to attend to their babies, and the meals of the hungry children at school and the man at work? Then, again, it is not good to water either flowers or vegetables during the hours when the sun is strong upon them. Therefore if the hours were changed as suggested by Mr. Redfern, five hours per day would still be saved, and give the water we do use better value to the vegetation.

TEDDY'S BEARS.

To the Editor—You and I have always been good friends except in politics, so you will perhaps forgive me if I ask you whether you do not think your editorial on "Teddy's Bears" a trifle ungenerous in tone? Mr. Roosevelt was a cow puncher before he was a president, and as such hunted big game and wrote of it in one of the soundest books America has

A CHURCH PROTEST.

Emmanuel Baptist Congregation Passes Resolution on Liquor at Fall Fair.

At the regular monthly business meeting of the members of Emmanuel Baptist church, June 27th, 1907, the following resolution was carried unanimously:

"Whereas, the city council of Victoria has voted a considerable sum of money from its treasury towards the defraying of the expenses of the Agricultural and Industrial Exposition to be held upon the fair grounds next autumn, and

"Whereas, despite the earnest protests of the Women's Council of the W. C. T. U. and of the Citizens' League, license and permission has been granted for the open sale of intoxicating liquors upon said fair grounds during the progress of the said exhibition, and

"Resolved, that we emphatically protest against the application of the city's money towards the maintenance of any institution that derives any part of its defraying of the expenses of the said exhibition from the sale of intoxicating liquors, and

"Resolved, that we heartily commend the decision of the Women's Council in their refusal to assist in the management of said exhibition, or in any way lend countenance thereto, and further

"Resolved, that it would be inconsistent for the members of this church, whose aim is the moral betterment of our city, to in any way patronize or encourage said exhibition in the event of intoxicating liquors being sold upon the grounds."

THE COLONIST'S ENGLISH.

To the Editor—Will the classic editor of the Colonist, who occasionally finds fault with the English of the Times, please enlighten me in my ignorance of modern cricket phraseology. Contained within the brief limits of six lines printed in this morning's Colonist are the following time-honored (?) cricket terms:—The Victoria Cricket Club will "take on" the Burrard C. C.; will "stack up" against the Vancouver Club; and will "line-up" on Monday. Probably this is modern cricket language, but it is beyond me. Will the Colonist, which professes to be an example in the use of correct language, please state where a glossary is obtainable so that such an old fossil as I am may not continue to be —The Two Main Factors Making for Socialism is the subject of a lecture to be delivered by J. B. Osborne of Oakland, Cal., on Tuesday evening, July 2nd, at the A. O. U. W. hall. Admission is free.

—Fine English sheeting for double or single beds, made from long even thread cotton, which ensures both durability and softness of texture. Prices 20c, 25c and 40c a yard. Robinson's cash store, 86 Yates street.

—In the Metropolitan Methodist church to-morrow evening the pastor will close the series of sermons on the books of the Bible, his subject being "Fools for Christ's Sake." R. A. C. Grant will sing "Beyond the Gates."

—The impression has got abroad that the report on the mining and metallurgical industry will not include placers. This is incorrect, as Mr. Hedley proposes to cover the placer mining and all other branches of the industry.

—A cheque for $55, being the proceeds of an entertainment held at Comox on June 29th, is gratefully acknowledged by the committee of the British Columbia Anti-Tuberculosis Association. The entertainment was conducted by Mrs. Harry Smith and Dr. Bradwell, assisted by the young ladies of the district.

—The Yorkshire Society of British Columbia have arranged to hold their annual picnic in the grounds of Mrs. Marshall's at the Gorge on Saturday, July 6th. The committee are confident that the picnic this year will prove to be even a greater success than on previous occasions. "The Tykes" will be "at home" to all friends.

—James Lancelot Bell and Miss Emily Alice Foley were married on June 19th at the bishop's residence, Seattle, Rev. Father Henly officiating. Mr. Bell is a well known lumber surveyor, whose headquarters are at Tacoma. Mrs. Bell is a daughter of Capt. M. and Mrs. Foley, who formerly lived in Victoria, but who now reside at Tacoma.

—Yet another eastern Canadian has invested in acreage in the neighborhood of Victoria. This time it is Mr. Mitchell, of Toronto, who has purchased from Mr. Forrest 14 acres of rich land in the Gordon Head district for a sum of $5,000. The property will be planted by the new owner with young trees and strawberries. There is already a small orchard set out.

—Mr. E. Sward, well known as an expert advertisement and show card writer, has opened an office in room 8 at 76 Government street. Many advertisers who recognize the ability of Mr. Sward as a draughtsman skilled in artistic advertisement writing will have the opportunity of availing themselves of the services of a professional writer who is able to the best advantage to draw the attention of the public to their various commercial enterprises.

—A sure cure for the worst case of dandruff, hair falling out, if faded will return to its brightness; makes the hair fluffy and curly; best hair grower; contains no dye or oil; used on blonde or black hair. 44545 Hair Balm will return gray hair to its natural color. STORE REMODELLED.

C. E. Redfern's Jewellery Premises Have Been Improved and Beautified.

The work of remodeling the interior of C. E. Redfern's Jewellery store on Government street, is now complete. Many new show-cases of walnut, with fittings of the same wood, have been installed and general improvements made in the interior fittings of the store. Mr. Redfern has also planned for the re-decoration of the walls and ceilings, intending to improve the capacity and appearance of his popular establishment to keep pace with the demands of his growing business. Extra lights will be fitted and the window and show-case space will be brought into prominence by the change.

The improvements extend to the optician's parlor, which has been refitted with the most up-to-date appliances, enabling the carrying-out of the delicate optical work of all kinds and ensuring satisfaction to those patronizing it. The repair department has also been refitted, the facilities being increased by the addition of new machines.

Mr. Redfern leaves on Wednesday next for Europe, and will be absent for four months. He will visit the chief office of Canada and the Eastern States on the way, and will proceed to the United Kingdom, where he will buy stock for the coming Christmas trade. The firm has a reputation to maintain in catering to the high class trade of Victoria, and Mr. Redfern, from his long experience in the city, is in a splendid position to make a choice selection of stock.

KEEP BABY WELL.

Ask any mother who has used Baby's Own Tablets and she will tell you. There is no other medicine so good. We pledge you our word there is no other medicine so safe—we give you the guarantee of a government analyst that Baby's Own Tablets contain no opiate or poisonous soothing stuff. The Tablets speedily relieve and cure all the minor ailments of babies and young children. Mrs. L. F. Kerr, Greenbush, Ont., says: "Baby's Own Tablets are the best all round medicine for babies and children I know of. I can strongly recommend them to mothers from my own experience." Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A letter addressed to the editor of the Times from Philadelphia makes inquiries about a man named Daniel Halsey, who was supposed to have lived here between the years 1854 and 1865. Information is sought concerning him by William Watson, No. 3145 W. 13 street, Philadelphia.

Soap Man Found it Everywhere Last Night When He Scattered Prizes.

Mrs. McKel, 331 Government street, $5 on the Patterson Shoe Co., Ltd.
Mrs. Palmer, 46 First street, $4 on Henry Young & Co.
Mrs. Thompson, 212 Government street, $3 on Terry & Marett's drug store.
Mrs. Costin, 399 Government street, $3 on the Standard Stationery Co.

The above were the recipients of the generosity of the Golden West soap man last night.

The soapy shower fell on four more thrifty Victoria housewives, and they were not hard to find either, as nearly everyone who has lived long in Canada knows the native brands seems to be using Golden West.

The soap man took a trip down Douglas street yesterday evening to see a customer, giving him a good opportunity to cover new territory. One house was drawn blank, and then he called at 46 First street, the home of Mrs. Palmer. She proved to be a staunch friend of Golden West, and soon produced a package from her spotless pantry. She explained that she had used no other brand since it was introduced, a year ago. She was given the $4 order on Henry Young & Co.

A lady from Oak Bay, who was visiting Mrs. Palmer, said she also used Golden West, and wanted to know if the soap man was going to give them a chance. The Oak Bay ladies need not worry, nor need any others in any other locality. It may be to-day or it may not be till next week, but the ghost of the Golden West will visit all sections many times before he is through.

It began to rain a little, and as the soap man stands up show with water, he dropped down again to Government street.

The first house he struck was that of Mrs. Costin, at No. 399. It was a good guess, for Golden West was an old friend of the house, and Mrs. Costin got a $3 order on the Standard Stationery Co.

The well ordered houses in that block looked good to the Golden West soap man, so he rang at 211. Mrs. McKel, the lady of the house had Golden West soap in abundance, and deserved her good luck in receiving the $5 order on the Patterson Shoe Co., Ltd.

Hardly expecting to guess right three times running, the soap man tried 313, the pretty home of Mrs. Thompson, but he could not draw a blank it seemed. Mrs. Thompson had the goods and received the $3 order on Terry & Marett, the Fort street drug-gists.

Ladies should remember that washing powder added with Golden West soap to the holder to two prizes. To-night's orders will be as follows: $5 on the Patterson Shoe Co., Ltd.; $4 on Henry Young & Co.; $3 on Terry & Marett's drug store, and $3 on the Standard Stationery Co.

LACROSSE TEAM.

Intermediates Leave To-morrow for Vancouver in Fine Form.

The Victoria Intermediates Lacrosse team leaves this city to-morrow morning to play against the Vancouver Intermediates on Monday afternoon. The local team have done some very good practice work, and their trainer, Bob Foster, who accompanies them to Vancouver, has every reason to congratulate himself upon the fine form and condition of his men. The following will compose the team: Goal, L. F. Campbell; point, W. Crocker; cover point, J. O'Kell; defence, W. Battersby, P. Wilson, W. Knox; centre, T. Nason; home, A. Campbell, W. Cans, C. Mason; outside home, T. Canning; inside home, P. Peterson. The substitutes are home, J. Crocker, B. Johnston, R. Stevens will act as referee.

The Intermediates have put in good work and promise well for senior honors next season.

The steamer Indianapolis will make three trips from Victoria to Los Angeles on the 4th of July. The little city across the straits invariably celebrates Independence Day in a noisy, royal style, and the trip has become very popular with Victorians.

ANNUAL JULY SALE

OUR MR. CAMPBELL, who is at present in Europe, has advised us that he has bought heavily for fall requirements and that we must clear out all summer goods regardless of cost to make room for the new purchases. In describing the genuine bargains offered, we will not drug our customers with superlatives. We will quote a few bald figures in each department and leave these to speak for themselves. Everything in our store is marked down correspondingly. We have purchased no job lots or manufacturers' culls to bolster up our sale. The goods we are offering are good, clean stock. As procrastination is the thief of time, so is change the life of our business, and these goods must make way for newer purchases.

Dainty Satchels

Fresh from Paris

Often this season does the purse or hand-satchel figure amongst wedding gifts. Certainly many of the elegant specimens we are showing are works of art, over which almost any bride would rhapsodize. These lovely bags are exploited in every conceivable shade of suede-like leather, some ornamented with the chastest of enamelwork, and many other styles. For midsummer use in particular there is an endless assortment. Hundreds of other appropriate gift-goods, including:

PARISIAN BRASS-MOUNTED PHOTO FRAMES.
ELEGANT BRASS-MOUNTED JEWEL CASES, with ivory hand-painted centres.
FRENCH BOOK MARKS, with choice gold and enamel finish.
FRENCH CALFSKIN HANDBAGS, etc., etc.

All very beautiful and exclusive, and, above all, bearing the seal of la mode's approval, and just fresh from France.

ROSE SHOW WAS GRAND SUCCESSASSEMBLY HALL WAS A VERY PRETTY SIGHTList of the Prize Winners in the Various Professional and Amateur Classes

The second annual rose show, which was held yesterday afternoon and evening in Assembly hall on Fort street, proved a great success. Every one was delighted with the highly artistic effect of the decorations, the arrangement of the trailing vines of ivy from the huge Australian tree fern drew forth great praise from the visitors to the exhibition. The Oakland nursery in the professional class made a clean sweep of the prize list.

The competition in the amateur class gave the judges considerable trouble in discriminating between the various rivals in the different classes. Mrs. F. Murrell, with a beautiful mass of red and white roses, carried off the prize for the best decorative basket. Mrs. W. F. Burton, with a salmon and pink array, won the second prize. The prize for the best vase or bowl of roses was awarded to Mrs. Shallerose for her lovely bowl of red and yellow blooms; J. Sherrburn came second with a mixed bowl.

A. Ohlsen and H. J. S. Muskett were the judges in the amateur class. Mr. Muskett, W. Warburton and Mrs. (Anon.) Beauland assisted in making the awards in the basket class. The following is a complete list of the prize winners:

BETTER THAN SPANKING.

Spanking does not cure children of bad-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W. 83, Windsor, Ont., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her to-day if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

Wife (sighing)—Oh! dear, I've still got to plan my bathing suit. I wish I could get some good suggestions. Hubby—I'll give you one. Suppose you build the bottom of it a little closer to sea-level this year.

All in the Word

The young man who had gone to New York from Georgia to secure a place and to carve out his fortune had made a good start and came home on a brief visit. Among his friends he met Deacon Hazlett, who had expressed a great interest in his going, but who now was passing him by with a nod when the young man called: "See here, Deacon, haven't you got a hand-shake for me?" "I'm afraid not," replied the good man with a solemn shake of the head. "But what's the matter? You were in favor of my going to New York?" "Yes." "And you gave me lots of good advice." "Yes, but it seems that you did not follow it. I am sorry, James—very sorry." "You must have heard something, Deacon?" "Alas, yes." "Something derogatory to me. What is it?" "I heard that you were running a typewriter in that great and wicked city, and it is only a question of time when trouble must come of it. You may tell me that she is not like other girls and that there is no cause for fear, but—"

I believe I will shake hands with you.

"Then, James, if there is a difference between a typewriter and a typist, and one is a machine and the other a blond young woman, and you are running the machine instead of the blond, I believe I will shake hands with you and congratulate you on your success thus far."

Getting Hot

I asked an old farmer who had come into Brooklyn from his farm with a load of vegetables to sell if the people out his way were waking up to the presidential campaign, and he answered with great heartiness: "You bet they are! Yes, sir, things are getting hot down my way." "Folks taking a great interest, eh?" "Heaps and more. Did you hear about Jim Wheeler calling Bill Smith a liar?" "No." "Yes, sir, called him a liar right to his face and then spit on his hands to back it up. Hear about Jim Sawtelle?" "No." "He got so excited talking politics that he put a hot pipe in his pocket and burned his coat-tails off. You must have heard about Tom Bowers and Elisha Jones?" "I don't think I have." "They have been friends for years. They were at the post-office the other night and got telling who they wanted for the next president, when Tom speaks up and says: "Elisha, you are an infernal liar!" "And you are a jackass on wheels!" says Elisha, and then they pulled off their coats, put chips on their shoulders and dared each other to knock 'em off. They have agreed not to speak to each other again as long as they live. Then we've had two crows die of hollerhorn, and one mad dog running around and a bull got loose and gored an old mare to death. Getting hot? You bet your life it is, and we are getting ready to save the country or bust!"

Put a hot pipe in his pocket and burned his coat tails off.

WHEN EVELYN WENT WADING.

I saw her wading in the brook— She did not know that I was nigh. I smiled at every step she took. There wading in the sparkling brook.

Her shoes and stockings she forsook. And held her dainty skirts knee-high. I saw her wading in the brook— She did not know that I was nigh.

THE CIRCUS
Now a thrill of glad excitement agitates the youthful breast. And the boy with half a dollar counts himself supremely blest. Whittle the prodigal who squanders dimes and pennies as they come. Works with energy untiring to acquire the precious sum. Boys whose records have been shady in the very recent past. Are upon their good behavior—much too good, indeed, to last. Cheerfully run on their errands, mind what's said without a frown. Just the usual condition when the circus comes to town.

PLEASANT REMINISCENCES.

I kin see the shimmerin' sunlight still a-dancin' fore my eyes, An the shadders in the water whur the res'less willers rise. I kin see the dragon flies a-stealin' sweetness as they could. An a-laughin' at the bees that work'd so hard fur others' good.

An the river, as it hurried, kep' a-singin' songs to me. 'Bout the streamlet in the mountain an the breakers in the sea. I'm dreamin', like a hungry man o'er some remembered dish. 'Bout the day I went a-fishin' as I didn't leech no fish.

Now papa fits her— wardrobe out And finds unhappy man. The most expensive articles To be her coat of tan.

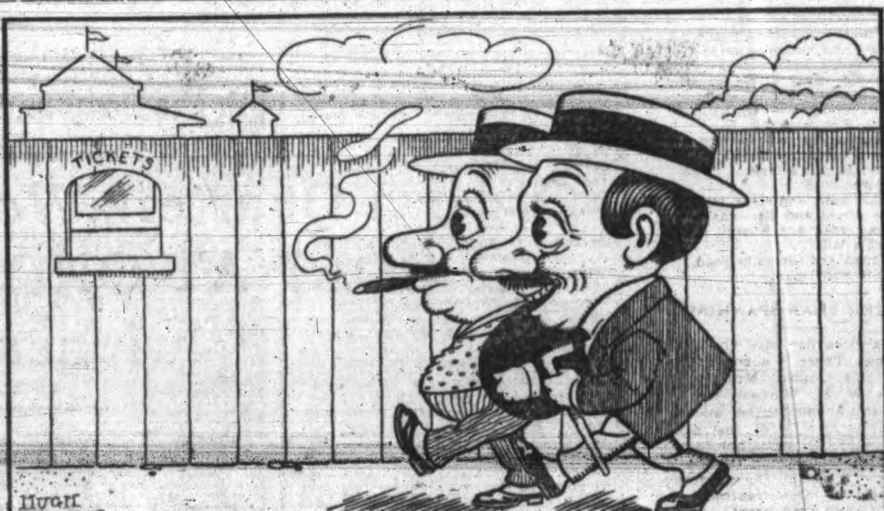

TO BE HUMBLER.

Spinks—Proudly is one of those people who think they know it all. Winks—Never mind. Pride goes before a fall. He has a daughter who will soon be through school. He will sit and listen to her graduation essay and feel like an ignoramus.

AMONG THOSE PRESENT.

Hook—Does he cut much ice in public affairs? Cook—None at all. Say, he is of about as much importance in a town meeting as the bridegroom at a June wedding.

STRICTLY SPEAKING

Bleacher—He was very unpopular before the game, but after he made the fine winning play he had many friends. Screacher—Ah! I suppose he made friends by the score.

WHAT FATHER THOUGHT.

Mrs. Proud—What did you think of Myrtle's graduation essay? Mr. Proud—Excellent. No one would think that Myrtle chewed gum and slapped her little brother, would they read slapped her little brother, would they dear?

Something More

He was a newspaper man, with a pencil and notebook in hand, and as he entered the office of the railroad President he said:

"Sir, I see by the reports of the Bureau of Statistics at Washington that during the last six months there have been 55,035 people killed and injured on the railroads of the United States."

"Something like that, I believe," was the reply.

"There have been over one hundred head-on collisions, due to reckless running."

"Yes, the boys have whooped her up pretty well."

"And about the same number of rear-end collisions, due to misreading orders."

"Yes, but the boys got tired of the monotony, you know."

"Forty trains have been derailed while running at dangerous speed," continued the reporter.

"About forty, I think. The boys got in a hurry."

"And over a hundred train hands have been killed in the six months."

"Yes, our train men do get giddy now and then."

"Forty of the accidents were brought about through direct disobedience or orders, sir."

"No doubt. Some of the engineers think they can run the old thing better than a train dispatcher."

"It's a terrible state of affairs, Mr. President. Human life would be safer on a stone barge at sea."

"Yes, I think so."

"And what are you going to do about it?"

Entered the office of the railroad president.

"? What can I do? I am simply elected to this position to make a five per cent dividend for the stockholders. You'll have to see some of the switchmen down in the yards and tell them that these accidents ought to stop. Good-day, sir. Oh! by the way, here is a telegram saying there has been another collision on our Road, with forty killed and sixty hurt. Might add those to your figures to round 'em out a little."

JOE KERR.

Things Were All Right

"You will remember," said an ex-soldier who remained with the sanitary squad in Cuba for two years after the close of the Spanish war, we were left behind to clean up the Cuban towns, and I can tell you we had a job of it. Not alone were the streets in horrible condition, but nineteen out of twenty houses were fever-breeding nests. In one case, where the proprietor was ordered to move things out and give us a chance to whitewash, he asked of me:

"But why go to all this trouble?"

"To make things clean," I replied.

"But why make things clean?"

"To stamp out the fever."

"But why stamp out the fever?"

"To make this a healthy town."

"But why make it a healthy town?"

"I cut him off by ordering him to hustle out the things, and after he had reluctantly cleared the place he turned to me with tears in his eyes and said:

"Senor, it is hard—it is hard. You have conquered us, and we must do as you say, but we feel the humiliation. Presently one of my friends will come along and sniff and snuff and ask: 'Where are the smells? I can answer him nothing. Then another will come and ask: 'Where is the fever? I can answer him nothing. Then the doctor will come and ask where are the sick, and the grav-

I ordered him off to hustle things out, digger will come and look at the house reproachfully, and all I can do will be to go out and tell them that I am sorry but the Senor Americanos have made laws that I must be clean and healthy and no longer have any enjoyment in life!"

WHAT THE DOCTOR TOOK.

An old negro living in Carrollton was taken ill recently and called in a physician of his race to prescribe for him. But the old man did not seem to be getting any better, and finally a white physician was called. Soon after arriving Dr. S. felt the darky's pulse and examined his tongue.

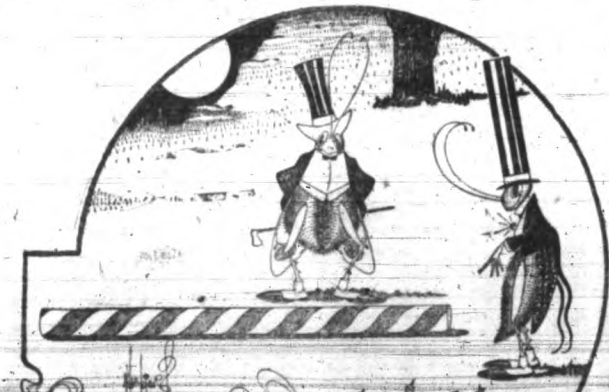

"Did your other doctor take your temperature?" he asked.

"I don't know, sah," the patient answered.

SOUTH PARK.

There was a good crowd of parents and friends at the closing exercises of the South Park school. W. Winby, the principal, opened the exercises with a short address on the work of the various classes during the term. He stated that in spite of the many influences which had tended to keep back the work, such as the changes of teachers and above all the measles, nevertheless the term had been a most successful one, as the large promotion list would show. He also made a brief mention of the sports engaged in during the term, and stated that although the pupils had not succeeded in doing anything very great in this line, they had done their best, all that any one could do. The programme which followed was an excellent one, and was much enjoyed by all present. The school and class choruses were especially good, and were rendered with a vim and precision remarkable in children of this age. Unlike many school choruses, the words were distinctly audible and met with the warmest applause. The solos, instrumental and vocal, as well as the recitations, were also extremely well rendered, showing a most careful and painstaking preparation on the part of the pupils and teachers. The assembly hall was most tastefully decorated for the occasion with flowers and flags, and the happy faces of the children betokened the delight with which they looked forward to their long anticipated holidays. The following were the numbers:

School chorus, "Away Among the Blossoms," piano solo, Erva Marwick; solo, Maud Walker; chorus, Miss Sweet's class, Div. 1; solo, Kitty Wallace; recitation, Emily Elworthy; choruses, "Fairland," "The Swing," Div. 5; recitation, "Mice at Play," Sara Delaney; school chorus, "His Majesty the King." Medals were distributed, the promotion lists read and certificates and Rolls of Honor presented. The programme closed with the singing of "God Save the King."

WILL THE WORLD DIE BY FIRE?

The belief that the world shall die by fire is not so shadowy, so chimerical, as many people now assert. It is a certainty, says T. P.'s Weekly. Yet it involves such aeons in the passage of time that only to our astronomers and scientists, in whose calculations 100,000 years are as mere fractions of a second, in as much as the history of the earth is concerned, does this present phase of the globe's existence appear at all transitory. They know that time after time this earth of ours has died to live again. And this through fire. Ours is a very little world, revolving round a very little sun, which in its own turn travels a long ellipse. At one end of this ellipse biases another sun, known to us as the star Arcturus; while at the other it cold voids, a vastness of absolute zero. Arcturus shall one day again burn up this earth.

More than 3,000 years ago Arcturus, as authentic records of astronomy prove, was visible to us only as a luminous speck, but now it blazes in the evening sky, this side of the Milky Way, fully as bright and glorious as Jupiter. Southward, our sun with the earth and other satellites speeds at the rate of 600,000,000 miles a year; along an arc the segment of which shows unaltering progress in one direction, towards Arcturus, that growing point of light and heat. The projection of this arc will carry us around it, and then away towards the star Polaris, to the extreme curve of that icy vastness of zero, which must be passed before the earth's return journey is again begun.

The line we are traveling is shaped by the influence of Arcturus, and the direction of it shall carry us round the blazing planet in a little more than 25,000 years. That we are now more than half-way down the journey to the turning point is known to those studying the sky and its history. When we have reached the turning point we will then be so near Arcturus that all physical life will be destroyed; for this planet is an incandescent sun 1,000,000 times larger and stronger than our own.

At the other end of the oval is the abyss of absolute zero. The sun, with its satellites when flung to the extreme limit of the ellipse—before it can turn again in answer to the magnet of its orbit—will fall in the grip of icy death. Yet again will it and the earth and other satellites awaken, and put on fresh developments as the southward turn is made and warmth flows in once more.

It is calculated by astronomers that 150,000 years are required for the completion of the circuit round Arcturus; and already in the last 2,000 years has a steadily increasing warmth become traceable throughout Europe; for instance, in the age of Caesar the peninsula of Italy possessed a winter climate like Russia's, snow fell deep, and rivers became thickly frozen, while North Europe, comprehending Germania and its regions, was but a sullen forest, where the few denizens clothed themselves in furs all the year round.

The story of the earth and its evolution assumes new and explicable meaning when considered in the light of astronomical science.

With the influence of Arcturus revealed, the glacial periods, and the changes of land and water, take on more definite explanations. Time after time has our world and sun and satellites spun round the long oval, and passed Arcturus. Time after time has life risen and flourished in the rising heat to die before the fiery rays of Arcturus. Time after time have races and empires of men risen and striven and grown—perfected only to pass away in the burning of Arcturus.

This is the revelation of science—science that cannot lie! What then controls the influence of Arcturus, and recreates the being of man as the dead world rolls southward anew? Only the unseen is immortal.

EXPRESS TRAIN IN COLLISION

ACCIDENT ON THE CANADIAN PACIFIC

Collided With Extra Loaded With Chinese—Several Persons Injured—Eastern Notes

Winnipeg, June 28.—A head-on collision occurred at 5 p. m., this evening between the west bound express and an extra loaded with Chinese, at Butler, two stations west of Ignace. Four Chinese and M. E. O'Connor, of St. John's N. B., a guard on that train, were probably fatally injured. Several passengers on the west bound express were also injured, but they are not believed to be seriously hurt. Both engines, together with the baggage car and two coal cars on the extra were damaged. Auxiliary trains were dispatched from Kenora and Ignace, and doctors were carried to the scene by a light engine to render every possible attention to the injured. The injured Chinese were sent to Fort William on a special train. Traffic was not long delayed.

Sale of School Lands.
Winnipeg, June 28.—The sale of school lands today quite set at rest the wild rumors of wheat market manipulators and crooked outside of western Canada, who have been predicting crop failure and financial stringency in the western provinces. One hundred and twenty-four sections were sold to bona fide farmers for an aggregate sum of $200,000. The highest price paid was $28 per acre, a remarkably good figure for wild lands, and the lowest was $7. All of the farmers were anxious to increase their holdings, and had the money to do it.

Crop Conditions.
Winnipeg, June 28.—Throughout the Northwest crop conditions are all that could be desired. The reports for the past week received by the C. P. R. go to show that the grain is doing very well, and excellent growth has been made during the past few days. At Edinburg, wheat is up 12 to 14 inches, and no damage has been done. Moose Jaw has stalks up a foot, but generally throughout Saskatchewan the average is 6 inches and upwards. In some cases heavy rain is reported, but no damage has been done. At Vegreville wheat is from four to fourteen inches high. The Emerson and Miami sections all report favorably, and the farmers are cheerful. At Swan Lake, grain is doing well, and the heavy rains of Wednesday and Thursday were just what was needed. Minto and the farmers look forward to a good harvest around Carman—the crop situation is satisfactory and throughout the Wawanesa country more rain is needed, but the grain has not yet suffered. Around Regina prospects are the very brightest for a bountiful crop. Crops in the neighborhood of Estevan are almost as far advanced as last year. The weather is very favorable.

Commercial Agents.
Toronto, June 28.—At a meeting of the council of the Toronto Board of Trade today a resolution was passed that the board has learned with much satisfaction from Mr. Grigg of the intention of His Majesty's board of trade to appoint commercial correspondents throughout the Dominion, and desire to express their appreciation of interest taken by the Imperial government in the matter of increasing trade between the Motherland and Canada. The board further respectfully submits the desirability of appointing a permanent head of the correspondents to reside in Canada. Copies of the resolution will be forwarded to the Canadian high commissioner in London and to Mr. Grigg.

Will Buy Warships.
Toronto, June 28.—To purchase two worn-out British naval ships now lying in the docks at Bermuda, and break up one, perhaps both, and transport the metal to Toronto, is the job undertaken by Frankel Bros. of this city. The vessels are the Rupert and Columbine. The Rupert was an armored cruiser of 5420 tons, and at one time was one of the biggest ships in the British navy.

Beef Commission.
Calgary, June 28.—At the beef commission sitting at Glendon the testimony all went to show that there is a combine among the large buyers. The commissioners say there will be a very warm session at Winnipeg, as they are gathering incriminating evidence all along the line against certain firms.

Man Wounded.
Kingsport, Ont., June 28.—Geo. Armstrong was shot in the arm with a blank cartridge fired from a passing G. T. R. train. Men of the 49th regiment, of Belleville, were in the car. The military authorities will make an investigation. Armstrong received a bad wound.

Saved By Boy.
Niagara Falls, Ont., June 28.—A 15-year-old boy named Dick Carpenter was the means of saving three men from drowning in the lower Niagara river. The men were James Stewart, of Queenstown, James Scott and Victor Lidger, of Lewiston, all fishermen. They went out on the river in a skiff and got caught in a whirlpool. The boy, who was on the shore, saw them and threw out a rope. Young Carpenter put out a rope and they were able to catch the boat and climb in, but Stewart was helpless. Scott grabbed for him and got his hat, but the man went down. When he arose for the last time, Lidger managed to catch him, but could not get him into the boat, and Scott and Carpenter pulled the boat to shore and Lidger dragged Stewart behind. He was nearly dead, and it took a doctor some time to resuscitate him.

Children Injured.
Toronto, June 28.—Coming down Norway hill, in the eastern part of the city, last night, at a furious rate of speed, an automobile owned by Herman Nerlich, containing five men, ran into a hole, smashing the engine and springs, switched off the road over the car tracks and sidewalk, crashed through a gate and dashed into a group of children, breaking both the legs of 13-year-old Harold Baker, son of Chas. Baker, severely injuring Ina Warne, aged 12, and slightly injuring her little brother. The auto ran right over the Baker boy, and others were carried fifteen feet before the wrecked machine came to a standstill. The five occupants of the car were thrown out or jumped when the springs broke.

GIVEN FREE HAND.
New York Public Utilities Commission Has Power of Sweeping Character.

Albany, June 28.—Powers of the most extraordinary and sweeping character have been given the public utilities commission, appointed by Governor Hughes to-day.

The bill creating the commission, which was passed by Governor Hughes, marked what was probably one of the most important steps to meet the present demand throughout the country for a better and more detailed supervision of corporations. The commission will have free handed control, and will be required to enforce the regulations provided for in the measure for the conduct of the public service companies, except telephone and telegraph plants.

It will be their duty to compel all corporations to give safe and adequate service at a reasonable rate, to prevent all rebates and discriminations in rates between different classes of shippers or passengers or kinds of traffic; to compel all common carriers to have sufficient cars and motive power to meet all requirements for the transportation of passengers and property which may be reasonably anticipated; and to see that every common carrier is held liable for loss or damage due to delay in transit occasioned by negligence.

The bill prohibits free passes except in a few limited instances. It provides that no franchise shall be capitalized in excess of the amount actually paid to the state as consideration for granting the franchise; that the capital stock of a corporation formed by the merger or consolidation of two or more corporations shall not exceed the sum of the capital stocks of the corporations so consolidated at their par value, or such sum and any fractional amount actually paid in cash; that no contract for consolidation or lease shall be capitalized in the stock of any corporation whatever, and that no corporation shall issue any bonds against or as a lien upon any contract for consolidation or merger; that no corporation shall purchase or hold stock in another such corporation as common carrier unless authorized by the commission.

A FAMILY MEDICINE
DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS THE ONE MEDICINE BEST SUITED FOR THE WHOLE HOUSEHOLD.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the greatest blood-builders known to medical science. They never fail to make rich, red blood—lots of it—the kind that brings health and strength to the sufferer. They are a family medicine—good for the grandmother or grandfather, the mother or father, and for growing children. Thousands have found new health and strength through the use of these pills. As proof of their being a family medicine Mrs. Chas. Castonguay, Michipicoten River, Ont., says: "My husband was ill for five months and was unable to do any work. He made several trips to the doctor to consult doctors and spent much money on medicine but nothing helped him—in fact he grew worse. He could not eat much and the little he did eat would not remain on his stomach. His stomach was examined by X rays and found to be in a terribly inflamed condition. After remaining at the hospital for some time under the doctor's care without finding relief, he returned home discouraged and afraid he was going to die. It was then Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were recommended and by the time he had taken nine boxes he was perfectly well and able to go to work again." Mrs. Castonguay continues: "I have also used the Pills for female troubles and found them a perfect medicine. My little one also owes good health and a rosy color to them."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure all the troubles due to poor blood or shattered vitality, such as anæmia, rheumatism, dyspepsia, neuralgia, St. Vitus dance, partial paralysis, etc., simply because they make rich, red health-giving blood. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50c a box, or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

DEPUTY FAINTED.

Royalist Member Carried From French Chamber During Speech by Socialist.

Paris, June 28.—M. Pedouze, unified Socialist, in the Chamber of Deputies to-day attacked Premier Clemenceau, declaring the latter was responsible for the blood in the south of France. He became so violent that Mr. De Boudry D'Asson, Royalist, fainted from excitement and had to be carried out. The government reacted a majority of 159 on a vote of confidence in the Chamber of Deputies to-night.

STRIKE PREDICTED.
Denver, Col., June 28.—Addressing the convention here to-day of the Western Federation of Miners, Robert Randall, of Goldfield, Nevada, predicted a general strike of all the miners throughout the country.

"I am pestered with letters from every direction asking me to help them to help him lift himself above his fellows," writes Major-General Baden-Powell, in contradicting the statement which has appeared couched his name with ballooning.

Major-General Baden-Powell's name has been confused with that of Major Baden-Powell, his brother, who is a well known aeronaut.

Chill is probably the most progressive of all the Spanish-speaking countries. It was the first to build railways, of which it now has over 2,000 miles. It also has 11,000 miles of telegraph.

HEARD THREATS MADE BY ORCHARD

MORE WITNESSES FOR THE DEFENCE

Seeking to Establish That the Explosion in the Vindicator Mine Was Accidental.

Boise, Idaho, June 28.—The attorneys for Wm. D. Hayward continued to-day to centre their efforts upon discrediting Harry Orchard and establishing their assertion that Orchard killed Steuermann in revenge for the loss of his interest in the Hercules mine. They directly attacked Orchard's account of the Vindicator mine explosion with the testimony of a witness which made it appear accidental rather than criminal.

Thomas Wood, a non-unionist who entered the Vindicator mine as a timberman after the strike began, swore that the night before the explosion he placed a box containing 25 pounds of giant powder in the shaft at the eighth level. He saw the powder the next morning shortly after 10 o'clock, and a few minutes later Supt. McCormick and Foreman Beck came to the eighth level. They remained but a short time, and left for the sixth level, where they were killed. Wood swore that when he reached the shaft twenty minutes later the powder was gone, and that it was reasonable inference that McCormick and Beck took it with them. Wood testified further that he had seen a revolver in Beck's pocket, that the fragments of only one revolver were found in the shaft level after the explosion, and that the positions of the bodies of McCormick and Beck indicated to him that the explosion occurred between them.

Orchard swore that he arranged a revolver with a wire attached so that when the safety bar was raised it would send a bullet into the giant powder he had placed ready.

One witness for the state has sworn that he found a wire attached to the safety bar, but Wood testified to-day that he carefully examined the safety bar and found nothing attached to it.

Mr. Easterly, and C. D. Copley both swore that they heard Orchard mention his loss in the Hercules mine and threaten to kill Steuermann for it.

Counsel in cross-examination for the state scored Easterly because he received two letters and a telephone message from Orchard on the eve of Steuermann's murder, and scored Copley for remaining quiet when the two men knew crime might be committed.

Easterly contended that he did not know Steuermann lived at Caldwell, and explained that although he knew Thomas Hogan was Orchard he took no steps immediately after the crime except to consult counsel for the Federation, because he was not an informer. Copley asserted that he did not take Orchard seriously when they met in San Francisco and Orchard told him of the Bradley crime.

Two or three species of birds are known to accompany the crocodile whenever he appears above water. When they see anyone approaching they will fly at the crocodile's nose, giving loud cries, and the beast never waits to investigate, but instantly shuffles into the water at his best speed.

WITH WOMEN ITS LOOKS FIRST.

The average woman considers her looks first—her health afterwards. That's why we hear of so many cases of broken health and nervous prostration.

She wears furs and heavy garments on a cold afternoon—in the evening with the thinnest kind of gown she attends the theatre or party.

These foolish irregularities in dress, reap their own reward in suffering. It is only when colds that lead to pneumonia result that she gets frightened and seeks a remedy that restores health. Let her take Ferro-China.

It soon gives vigor to the body, quickly brings color to the cheeks, rests the nerves and strengthens the stomach. It sharpens appetite, invigorates digestion, adds weight, it gives the muscle tone and elasticity that makes the alluring one feel strong and vigorous.

If you want strength, good color, high spirits and energy, use Ferro-China, the most nourishing, tonic made. Sold everywhere in 50c. boxes.

THE MEDICINAL VALUE OF FRESH FRUIT JUICES

One of the Greatest Wonders of the Age.

Hundreds Have Been Made Well by Taking Advantage of an Ottawa Physician's Discovery.

Everyone knows how beneficial fruit is, when eaten regularly. Fruit is nature's laxative—the finest kidney regulator—and the ideal skin tonic. Unfortunately, the medicinal principle of fruit occurs only in minute quantities. In order to consume enough fruit to relieve biliousness, one would also consume a large amount of woody fibre or pulp, which would upset the stomach and impair digestion.

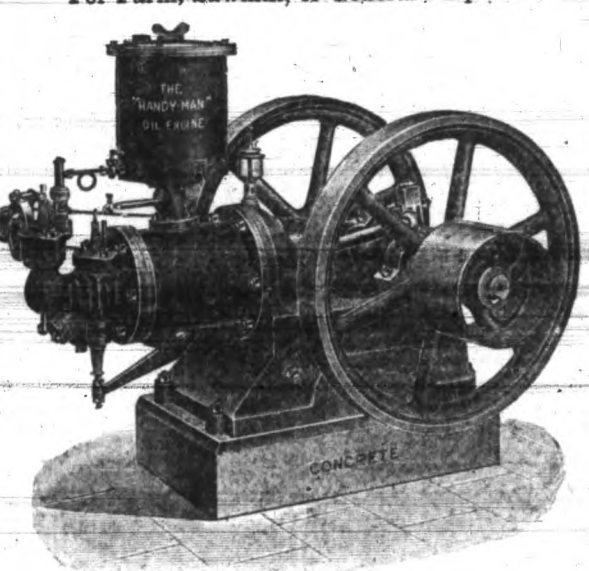

An Ottawa physician discovered a way to get around these difficulties. He pressed the juice from apples, oranges, figs and prunes—and then forced one more atom of the bitter principle from the discarded orange peels, into the concentrated juices. This formed a new compound, having all the curative effects of fresh fruit—and in a highly intensified degree. These valuable tonics and internal antiseptics were added and the whole pressed into tablets.

These are "Fruit-a-tives" the wonderful Liver Tablets you hear so much about. "Fruit-a-tives" cure the most obstinate cases of non-action of the bowels, biliousness, headaches, sleeplessness, nervousness, kidney trouble, rheumatism, sciatica and neuralgia. They are the greatest blood purifying medicine in the world, while their action on the skin, in clearing and beautifying the complexion, is nothing short of marvelous. Ask your druggist for "Fruit-a-tives" and see that you get them. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50. By mail, postpaid, from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

W. D. MATHEWS HERE ON VISIT SPEAKS OF OUTLOOK IN THIS PROVINCE

Prospects in Every Line in British Columbia He Says Are Exceeding Bright.

W. D. Mathews, of Toronto, one of the directors of the P. R. R. in the city. He is accompanied by Mrs. Mathews, his daughter, his son and Miss Kenny. They are making their home at the Oak Bay hotel during the stay in the city. Mr. Mathews is at the head of the Canada Malting Company, and has immense experience in the malting business throughout the whole country. In British Columbia he is closely identified with the mining industry. Mr. Mathews has never seen a greater confidence displayed by the people of British Columbia in the future prosperity of their province than during his present visit. The change in the general conditions of British Columbia, were never so marked as at the present time. In every branch of trade, industry, agriculture and commercial enterprise there is not only increased activity, but at the same time there is every indication of a rapid development on a solid commercial basis taking place in British Columbia. Everything is at last firmly established. Mr. Mathews instanced the mining industry and also the opening up of the Kootenay district for fruit.

With regard to mining there were the right men at the head of the management of the mining companies, men who were determined to have mining worked on sound commercial principles. Respecting men of good standing and weight in business circles were supervising the development of the various mining properties in British Columbia. In consequence capital was rapidly coming into the country for the development of its great resources. Agriculture was in the same prosperous condition, so that whenever any land was cleared it was immediately taken up or put under profitable cultivation.

The lumber industry was developing very rapidly, both in its home and its foreign trade. In one line, however, there was need for a greater development. At present the demand for coal was greater than the supply. Japan and Australia had sent coal to British Columbia. They were able to do so by securing it at a lower price than the local supply. The supply of the home output of coal must be increased in the near future, he said, for it is required, not only for the ordinary domestic purposes, but to meet the ever-increasing demands made by the growing shipping trade of British Columbia, both home and foreign, as well as to facilitate the development taking place in the great railway systems.

The only embarrassing proposition at the present time was the labor situation. There was a great shortage of labor for all classes of labor. It was to the laborers' own interest to do all in their power, he said, to induce laborers to come into the country, because the country's growth was permanent, and would be a lasting growth.

The most gratifying point of all, in the opinion of Mr. Mathews, was that the East as well as the West was feeling the effects of development in every branch of trade and industry. The Dominion as a whole was prospering in proportion as its population was increasing.

The new school in Victoria would in every way be a magnificent one, he said. Mr. Mathews yesterday went over it, and he is perfectly convinced that in every possible way it will be one of the most up-to-date of the world's school systems. It will be in line with all the other well known tourist hotels of the world in equipment, management and cuisine. Summing up, Mr. Mathews described British Columbia as "opening up" its wealth to all those who would grasp it from the lofty mountain ranges, the fertile valley lands, or from the deep, teeming sea around our coasts.

At the closing of the Boys' Central school yesterday morning two presentations were made to Mr. Frederick G. Wood, who is retiring from the staff after two years and a half successful work. Mr. Wood is leaving to continue his studies at McGill at Montreal, and the pupils of his division and also the members of the teaching staff took the opportunity of expressing their appreciation of Mr. Wood's labor. The Boys presented him with a handsome set of ebony clothes brushes with monogram attached, and a silver napkin ring. This presentation was made by Master Gustav Silvertz. Following this, Principal G. H. Deane, on behalf of his staff, presented the retiring teacher with a beautiful gold pocket watch, suitably engraved. Mr. Deane referred to Mr. Wood's faithful efforts while connected with the Boys' school, and conveyed to him the best wishes of all his fellow-teachers. In his college life, Trustee Mrs. Jenkins also expressed her regret at Mr. Wood's departure, as did some of the parents present. Three cheers for the teacher brought the exercises to a close.

WESTBOUND TRAFFIC.
Congestion is Now Relieved and Freight Trains Make Good Time.

Local merchants will be interested to learn that the recent congestion of west-bound traffic has been relieved on the lines of the Northern Pacific Railway. This has been accomplished by the addition of rolling stock and also by double tracking. At present the Pacific coast is making the best time that has ever been recorded.

The Northern Pacific special transcontinental freight train makes the run regularly from Chicago to Seattle in from 8 to 10 days.

CUSTOM HOUSE CHANGES.

W. Marchant Has Been Appointed Inspector in the Province—James Parfitt Resigns.

Information has been received of changes which are pending amongst the staff of the local custom house officials. W. Marchant, who has hitherto occupied the position of Dominion appraiser, has been made customs inspector for the province of British Columbia. He will fill this position in place of J. C. Clute, of New Westminster, who is retiring.

A further change reported is to the effect that James Parfitt has resigned his position as elevator clerk in the customs department. Mr. Parfitt is going into partnership with his brother in the contracting business. Several large contracts have been awarded to the firm of Parfitt Bros., and the new organization is promised a good business in the future.

VICTORIA'S MODERN BOARDING SCHOOL

Company is Incorporated for Educational Work—First Directors Have Been Named

Action, according to the last issue of the Provincial Gazette, has been taken towards starting the large boarding school already mentioned in these columns. A company has been formed with a capital of $100,000, with the following well known citizens as the preliminary directors: D. R. Ker, F. B. Pemberton, W. Fleet Robertson, J. H. S. Matson, C. A. Holland, Arthur Robertson, John Nelson, D. M. Ebert, together with R. V. Winch, of Vancouver.

It is the intention to look very carefully over the many sites offered before coming to a decision as to the permanent location. They will not build at once, in order to procure the best advice possible as to internal arrangements.

For a year at least larger temporary quarters will be sought for the upper school somewhat out of town.

In no case will the Oak Bay avenue school house be given up. This will be kept permanently as the preparatory school, on account of its convenient location for day pupils.

VISITING DOCTORS.

Party of Physicians Who have Attended Convention Are Here.

A party of fourteen physicians and ladies from the Eastern States, arrived in Victoria this morning from Seattle, and will leave for Vancouver tomorrow. Included in the party are Dr. H. King, M. D., of Saratoga Springs, N. Y.; Pitts Edwin Howe, M.D., and wife, Boston; H. S. Searles, M.D., Brooklyn; S. Best, M.D., Middleburgh, N. Y.; W. S. Glenn, M.D., State College of Philadelphia; N. M. Sloan, M.D., Lafayette, Pa.; Dr. Boskowitz, Dean of the Eclectic Medical College, N. Y.; Mary A. Willis, M.D., Jersey City, and Miss Lydia Shields, New Alexandria, Pa. They have been attending the National Convention of the Eclectic Medical Association in Los Angeles, which concluded on June 21st, after a session extending over four days.

The party will leave for Vancouver tomorrow and will spend half a day in that city, afterwards proceeding to Glacier, where a day will be spent. From Glacier the journey will be continued to Banff, where a halt will be called for two days to enable the members of the party to take in the mountain scenery. From Banff they will proceed to Fort William, and crossing the lakes to Owen Sound, will continue their journey through Toronto and Buffalo to Albany, where the party will break up. The trip has been so far, attended by propitious weather, and the visitors are unanimous in declaring it a great success. So far the visitors have viewed the scenery of the California coast on the Coast route, stopping over at the more important points, and have also visited San Francisco and Seattle. They are loud in their praise of Victoria and express the opinion that it is the prettiest watering-place on the whole coast. To-day they spent their time in tallying rides to the chief points of interest.

Two Indian women and one man were arrested on Government street last night and were charged in the police court to-day with being drunk and disorderly. Magistrate Hall imposed a fine of $4 and costs in each case. The offenders came into the city last night after being paid off by a fruit grower for whom they were picking berries. Emma Wilson again appeared on remand charged with stealing a watch from James Donald. Magistrate Hall did not think the evidence sufficient to convict the accused and dismissed the case.

The wedding took place yesterday at St. Barnabas church, by Rev. E. G. Miller, of Miss Julia Wilkinson, fourth daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilkinson, of Oaklands, Victoria, and Mr. S. L. Mitchell, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell, of Vancouver, and grandson of the late Capt. Mitchell, of England. The bride was attended by her sister, Mabel Wilkinson, while the groom was supported by his brother, Miss Wilkinson was given away by her father. Subsequent to the ceremony a wedding breakfast took place at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell leave to-day for North Bend, where Mr. Mitchell is locomotive engineer to the C. P. R. The newly-married couple were the recipients of many costly presents.

OLD TIME WRESTLER DEAD.

Jackie Ashcroft, of Nanaimo, Passed Away in His Sixtieth Year.

(Special to the Times.)
Nanaimo, June 28.—Jackie Ashcroft, the father of wrestling on the Pacific coast, the man who taught Tom Davies, Billy Murdoch and Billie Stewart who afterwards taught Dan McLeod, died this morning in his 60th year. At one time he held the 120 and 125 pound championship of the world. He was an enthusiastic at the game and had many wrestling holds that were a secret with him. He had intended to show them before his death, but died with his secret.

LOVING MURDER TRIAL.

Houston, Va., June 28.—At the opening of the court to-day in the trial of former Judge Loving for murder, the arguments of the attorneys began yesterday afternoon were continued. When former State Senator J. F. Barksdale arose to speak for the defence every available seat in the court room was occupied. Miss Elizabeth Loving has not been in the court since she appeared on the witness stand.

VOTING ON WEDNESDAY.

Aldermen See No Reason Why Sewer By-law Should Be Opposed.

On Wednesday the property owners of the city will be called upon to pass judgment upon three by-laws, one is for the extension of the sewer system, and the other two are for the endorsing of the scheme for selling the city property not utilized at present adjoining the driving park and the city lots on the reclaimed land in James Bay.

The first of the by-laws, that for the extension of the sewerage system, calls for the authorization of a loan of $50,000 for the purpose of carrying out the particular part of the city is to receive all the benefits from this.

It is rather for the general advantage and will be expended where the demand is most urgent.

In connection with this loan, which the property owners are asked to endorse, there seems to be some misconception. The city as a whole is not called upon to bear the expense of the extension it is pointed out by the members of the committee. On the contrary the taxes will not be increased if the by-law passes. The rentals from the extended portions of the city property and interest necessary to meet the expense of the parts directly benefitted. It therefore comes more as a local frontage tax.

On this account the committee see no reason why any opposition should be raised to this by-law.

SCOURING THE COUNTRY.

C. P. R. Detectives Engaged on the Elliot Jewel Robbery—Only One Clue.

The C. P. R. detectives are now scouring Canada for information with respect to the strange disappearance of the jewels belonging to Mrs. Elliot, of which details were published in the Times yesterday. Mr. Elliot has offered a reward of $250 for their recovery. The owner is, however, doubtful of the recovery, as a claim has already been put in for the insurance money. The jewels were insured for $200, about one-third of their value, with Lloyd's, in London. It was only at the very last moment when Mr. Elliot was booking berths at the C. P. R. offices in Trafalgar Square, London, that the ticket clerk there asked him if he did not intend to insure the jewels which he said were being carried in a trunk in the baggage room. The idea seemed feasible to Mr. Elliot, with the result that he took out the insurance for $200.

The prevailing opinion amongst local detectives is that the robbery took place while the trunk was being transported from the railway station in Liverpool to the dock from which the vessel sailed. This is somewhat substantiated by the discovery in the despoiled trunk of a block of wood which is similar to those used by luggage trolleys and truck attendants in the Old Country to place between different pieces of baggage to prevent them knocking together and so becoming damaged. Boys told that the trunk was in a trunk in the baggage room. The idea seemed feasible to Mr. Elliot, with the result that he took out the insurance for $200.

PERSONAL.

T. Martindale, Mrs. Martindale and family, of Portland, Ore., formerly of Victoria, are here on a visit to friends. Mr. Martindale was a decided improvement in Victoria since he left the city a few years ago, and is somewhat inclined towards making it his home again.

Master Robert Wesley Walker, Douglas street, left on the steamer President with his uncle, John H. MacKenzie, mining engineer, to spend his vacation in Santa Cruz, California.

H. C. Brewster, M. P. P., has arrived in Victoria from the West Coast. He will spend a few days here before returning.

R. Grant, M. P. P., of Cumberland, is in the city.

AN "EARTHQUAKE" SHOCK.

What is alluded to as an earthquake, but what is just as likely to have been the last convulsive tremor of a mammoth sulphur bottom, is said to have occurred at the whaling station of Sechart. The news of this seismic or mammoth disturbance, was brought to port last night by the steamer Tees, Captain Townsend.

The inhabitants of the sequestered station report that one day a distinct shock was felt. At the time a couple of whales were lying at the slip, but no one could remember having seen them move. Up to the present no record of the shock has been received from the various seismographs scattered throughout the world, and although those on board the Tees tell the story in a somewhat incredulous fashion, due credence must be given to the inhabitants of Sechart until such time as the story has been proved to be a whaling one.

The Tees had an uneventful trip. Whaling continues to prove successful and each day sees its quota of the mammals captured. The Tees reports that the sealing schooners Umbria and Markland were lying at Clayquot waiting to ship Indian hunters, while the Thomas B. Bayard was waiting. The C. P. R. steamer had a long passenger list, and among others many who had been inspecting mining and timber properties on the West Coast. The Tees will leave again for Clayquot and way ports on the last inst.

GERMAN ENTERPRISE.

A combination of three German steamship companies is dispatching steamers every three weeks from New York for New Zealand and Australia, calling at the following ports: Auckland, Wellington, Lyttelton, Port Chalmers, Fremantle, Adelaide, Melbourne, Sydney and Brisbane. Steamers will be dispatched regularly, whether or not full cargoes are obtainable. This new line of steamers will lessen somewhat the amount of freight available for Watchdog's new Australian Mail Line, which begins in August dispatching steamers every four weeks from Seattle via San Francisco to Auckland and Sydney. Statistics of the import and export trade of Australia show a steady increase during the past year.

NEW GERMAN FLIER.

The latest addition to the fleet of the North German Lloyd Steamship Company is the Kronprinzessin in Goettin. From information which has been received by E. E. Blackwood, the local agent of the company the new vessel will be a liner and in every respect except in name might be included in the Wilhelm class. She will make her maiden trip, leaving Bremen on the 8th of August and will return leaving New York on the 29th inst. Her speed will be in the neighborhood of 23 knots.

MARINE NOTES.

When she arrived in port last evening from Seattle on her way to Alaska, the steamer Spokane, of the Pacific Steamship Company, had a passenger list. The vessel sailed some hours at the outer wharf, which enabled those on board to get a glimpse of Victoria. She left on her way to the North shortly after 7 p.m. It was late this morning before the steamer Sonoma, under charter to the Pacific Steamship Company, sailed from this port. She is on her way to San Francisco.

The Blue Funnel liner Ning Chow sailed on Wednesday for Yokohama for this port. She is bringing a large quantity of freight from Liverpool, although the amount has not been cashed.

The British ship Socotra has been chartered to load lumber at the Chemainus mills for Australia. She is now in Puget Sound, and will arrive at Chemainus early next week.

A new coal-burning record under conditions has been made by H. M. S. Venerable, which was taken on board in four working hours, an average of 125 tons an hour.

Throughout the morning the steamer City of Nanaimo was engaged at the outer wharf in loading with 400 tons of general merchandise for shipment to Vancouver. The cargo was brought to this port by the Japanese liner Shinano Maru. Shortly after the City of Nanaimo sailed for the Terminal City.

The Sirius, the first steamer to cross the Atlantic, was 178 ft. long, and her tonnage 450. She did the voyage in eighteen days.

Do Not Put Off Buying a Refrigerator

Buy one now. You will not regret the investment. Before the season is past you will be money in pocket. You will save yourself worry and money and you'll wonder how you managed to do without one for so long.

But when buying, get a good one. That doesn't mean one costing a lot, but just a little care and thought in selection. We have the finest and largest line of REFRIGERATORS in the city, and we shall be pleased to demonstrate to you the superior merits of these systems.

We are at present showing several styles in our Broughton Street windows and have many more on the 4th floor.

Prices Range up from $11.40

Are You Prepared for Fruit Canning?

The fruit canning season is with us now. Are you prepared? If you are not ready you had better prepare because the berry season is over with a rush and you'll be disappointed if you cannot next winter delight in some delicious strawberries.

Don't take any chances on your fruit spoiling by using old jars with faulty tops and worthless rubber rings. New ones cost too little nowadays to run any risk.

The "Mason" jar is the favorite jar with the housekeepers. First put on the market in 1858 it has increased each year in popularity and the sales of this jar now exceed the combined sales of all other makes. You run no risk with the "Mason."

Another thing, be sure you are buying "Firsts"—the factories sell "Seconds" to some dealers. But not to us.

Pints, porcelain tops, dozen 80c.
Quarts, porcelain top, dozen $1.00
Half Gallon, porcelain top, dozen $1.35

HOME-MADE MEDICINE.

Said to Relieve Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism.

One ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion.
One ounce Compound Sassafras.
Four ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla.
Mix and take in teaspoonful doses after meals and at bedtime, is stated by a prominent physician to give most excellent results in kidney or urinary ailments, and also in rheumatism and scalds. The mixture opens the clogged pores of the kidneys, thus assisting them in their work of filtering all waste and poisonous matter from the blood, and expels these from the urine. To allow this poisonous matter to remain means that it will settle in the muscular tissues or joints, and cause the untold misery known as rheumatism.

The mixture is composed of harmless vegetable ingredients, which can be purchased at any good drug store, and mixed at home.

Anyone suffering from any of these afflictions will no doubt be pleased to learn of so simple and highly recommended remedy.

OUR LONDON LETTER

London, June 7.—The hopeless incompetency of the government has become so patent that even the most blindly ignorant followers of C. B. and his party must by now be aware of it. The Premier surpassed himself by the adroitness by which he disposed of the "business of the session" in his long-expected speech the other night. He struck off half the parliamentary programme at one stroke, shelving the ticklish bills which promised to be troublesome, and presented a cool front and smiling demeanor to the House of Commons, with a few lame excuses that deceived nobody. On the Irish Council Bill he performed the funeral rites as a matter of course. The Irish University Bill is also put aside, but as a sop to the "distressed" ones of the Emerald Isle, C. B. promises to send Mr. Birrell, who, as everybody knows, was responsible for the farcical Irish Council Bill, to Ireland in the autumn in order to learn what the Irish really want. Oh! Mr. Birrell! Why don't you realize that you've trod on the tail of Paddy's coat.

Mr. Chamberlain's Return.

Friends, admirers, enemies: one and all, join in regret that Mr. Chamberlain should have returned from his sojourn in France in no better fighting trim than when he left. It was pitiable to witness the once strong, vigorous, undaunted figure, bent and worn, assisted from boat to train and from train to carriage, a helpless invalid. It is being realized both at home and abroad that "Joe" can never, unless something like a miracle happens, be anything more than a great moral force in England again. His fighting days are ended and unhappily there is no "fighter" to take his place in the political battlefield.

Edna May's Marriage.

So the "sweet Salvation Army girl" has been "followed on" and has done in real life what she did so often in the "Belle of New York." Married a wealthy lover, Miss Edna May is one of the lucky stars who is wisely disappearing while she is still in the ascendant. This week her marriage with Mr. Oscar Lewisohn took place at the Windsor Registry Office. The affair was kept very quiet. But a few of her friends had an inkling of where the ceremony was to take place. The happy pair have every prospect of a bright future. If plenty of money is any help in that direction, and are off on a protracted honeymoon. The London papers have been full of accounts of her wonderful trousseaux and her plans and one is glad to record so triumphant an exit for so popular a stage favorite.

Municipal Scandals.

Until within a year or two ago we English prided ourselves upon the purity of our methods in local government. But the Poplar revelations opened our eyes a little. But Poplar is, as many readers probably know, in the extreme East End of London, and it has been found impossible to induce any man of local standing to take a prominent part in local life. Therefore the consequence was that the administration of local affairs naturally gravitated into the hands of men who had nothing to lose and everything to gain by giving up their spare time to the management of municipal affairs. So there is some excuse for Poplar, even though there was sworn evidence to prove that the members of the Board of Guardians had practically lived on the rates for years and fared sumptuously at every meeting. The workhouse master at Poplar kept a private cellar for the guardians which was open all hours of the day and night, and at the local government inquiry, orgies were described to have taken place that would have provided either Emile Zola or Alphonse Daudet with material for a novel which, without deviating a hairbreadth from the actual facts, might be even too realistic for our French friends.

The scene, however, has now shifted from east to west and for a fortnight the Inspector of the Local Government Board has been inquiring into scandals no less discreditable which have taken place at Hammersmith. Now Hammersmith is as different from Poplar as chalk is from cheese. It is not quite an aristocratic suburb, Hammersmith is at all events on the fringe of it, and the people who are responsible for local government are men of substance. But it is alleged they have proved as frail as their fellows in the East End. It became necessary to build a new workhouse to accommodate 80 inmates, so far as yet can be ascertained. This palatial building will cost the ratepayers over a quarter of a million and the difficulty is to find who has not had a pecking out of the money. An architect confessed to having received £1,000 by way of commission, and probably a few members of the Board of Guardians have divided amongst themselves. To give a few examples of how the commission business has been worked, it is only necessary to mention two or three items. For the use of the inmates, 35 fixed porcelain baths were provided which figured in the bill at over five each. A stained glass window in the nurses' corridor cost over £40, whilst the tinted glass in the dining room worked out at £645. There is a turret and clock at the entrance which cost £1,000, and the ornamental gates and boundary walls absorbed the modest sum of £633. At the opening ceremony the guardians did themselves well—£34 is the amount spent, of which £375 represents the champagne lunch.

The Bryce Divorce Case.

The verdict in the sensational Bryce divorce case, in which the judge refused to grant a decree nisi, unless the two parties to the marriage were as sure as those who had followed the evidence. The judge and counsel's denunciation of the co-respondent, Mr. Bryce, was read with general satisfaction. The most remarkable thing about this case was the covering up of the identity of the girl with whom Mr. Bryce was supposed to be on familiar terms. She was always referred to as Miss A. Rather a strange proceeding, since if her name were revealed the general public would be none the wiser and the Bryce's own friends all must have known who Miss A. was. Another remarkable thing was the numerous times Mrs. Bryce fainted dramatically in court.

The Derby.

Never was there so disappointing a Derby Day! Even the winner was not popular! To start with, the weather had a sulky fit and not the promise of a gleam of sunshine was to be seen in the leaden skies of the morning. An incessant downpour kept on just long enough to thoroughly dampen the spirits and incidentally soak the clothing of those who braved the elements and drove or motored or stage-coached to the popular race meeting. However, it cleared up a bit for the actual race. But what a disappointment the race was! To the public that is, but a matter of wild rejoicing to "bookies," for Silvio Gairola, the favorite, was only third, and "Bose" Croker's chestnut colt Orby, on whom the starting price was 11 to 1, won the Derby. Even the judges had no opinion of Orby, who looked an ill-shaped animal beside the beautifully formed Silvio Gairola. But beauty did not win the day this time.

The Horse Show.

There is no doubt of the success of the International Horse Show at Olympia. Although the preparations have been going on for some time, it is only just dawning on the intelligence of the general public that this show is about the biggest and most wonderful one that has ever been held in London. It is organized quietly, and it is only when a visit is paid to Olympia and a few of the staggering facts published in the newspapers mentally digested, that outsiders grasp what it all means. The demand for seats is nothing short of amazing. The decorations are truly wonderful and no expense has been spared. The great ring is a flower garden with real growing flowers and plants. A few facts and figures which will give an idea of the gigantic scale of the show: Number of entries of horses, 5,100; of same, 4,000; number of exhibitors, 600; in general, by Mr. Winans, 46 horses; Vanderbilt lent largest, 20 horses; total amount spent by exhibitors, £100,000; amount of prize money, £7,500; size of ring, 190 yards by 80 yards; number of boxes (holding 15), 30; number of seats, 24,000; amount of money in general, £20,000; size of catalogue, 500 pages.

The King's Visit to Ireland.

The King has fixed the date of his visit to Ireland and is to be accompanied by the Queen. In July they go to Bangor and from thence to the Emerald Isle. His Majesty expressed a wish to witness an Irish race, so the Irish Turf Club have arranged to hold a meeting on the beautiful Leopardstown course during his visit.

STOP THAT HEADACHE!

FOOLISH TO SUFFER WHEN A SIMPLE REMEDY WILL PREVENT AND CURE.

Ever stop to think what caused your headaches? Probably not. Then look to the bowels and stomach, and you'll find plenty of cause. Chances are you'll find constipation, liver is sluggish, stomach overburdened with half-digested food. No wonder you are dull, tired, restless day and night.

You need the cleansing influence of Dr. Hamilton's Pills which cure your condition in short order. Being composed of natural vegetable remedies Dr. Hamilton's Pills possess great power, yet they are harmless. They aid all organs connected with the stomach, liver and bowels. In consequence food is properly digested, the blood is pure and nourishing, the body is kept strong and resists disease. Headaches never come to those who use Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and this fact is vouched for by the Assistant Manager of the Poultry Success Magazine, of Springfield, O., Mr. J. H. Callender, who writes: "No better medicine than Dr. Hamilton's Pills. We use them regularly and know of marvelous cures that resisted every other remedy. They cleanse the whole system, act as a tonic on the blood, enliven digestion, help the stomach and make you feel strong and well. For headaches, indigestion and stomach disorders I am confident that the one prescription is Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

You can rely on Dr. Hamilton's Pills with implicit confidence; their effect is wonderful. Sold by all dealers. Price 25c. per box, five boxes for $1, or by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., and Hartford, Conn., U.S.A.

CRIME AND TOES.

An Italian physician has studied fingers and toes of 4,500 criminals, and finds a deficiency in the size or number of toes quite frequently. He has also observed that among men of toad quality, the big toe is marked by a wide space between the great toe and the second toe, is a condition quite common among criminals, also a webbed condition of the toes, an approximation to the toes of some savages. He found the "little toes" rudimentary in many cases, showing a tendency toward the four-toed animal foot. The most common of all the abnormalities was the webbed condition of the toes. These observations agree with those made by some of our own countrymen, and various investigators have found other deformities existing among certain criminal classes, particularly misshapen heads, one-sided faces, misshapen ears and eyes, etc. The criminal is a degenerate type.

AN ENGINE SHED YARN

Wilfrid J. Randall.

"Did y'ever hear," said Sam Nidd, driver of the bi-weekly boat train, "of how the May Queen went pickin' primroses?"

It was Friday night, and that was the great time for stories and chaff at the Green engine shed. Besides the ordinary traffic, an engine—sometimes two—had to be in readiness for the boat express, whose hour of departure was variable according to the punctuality or otherwise of the steamer; the through mail was frequently heavy enough to need a show and a market train—known facetiously as the Cabbage Limited—ran on Fridays only from the Cardinham branch, returning at 10.05. So it often happened that a larger group than usual lounged around the furnace mouth exchanging banter at seven o'clock.

"Never heard the yarn?" asked Sam, puffing at his cherished black briar as he contemplated the firelit faces clustered around the huge shadowy engines, and the glinting mechanism of the turntables. "Well, I'll tell 'ee. Up to Cardinham, where I was working, then, near the machine show begins ten miles of line on the Tamerton branch, as straight and slick as you'll see anywhere, the sort of bit you can pick up lost time on. They used to trot out the new engines on that stretch of line for speed. Early mornin', when there wasn't much traffic about, they'd keep that bit blocked by special depensation, as you might say, for an hour between five and six or thereabouts, and send all the trains—there's only three or four—on the other track; 'ee 'sposin' there was a new 'un to be tried, or a special 'job wanted' a run. Well, this here May Queen was a ripper, a bit of all-right; seven-foot drivin' wheels, six-coupled, tremendous high-boiler, and a short little tunnel stuck a long way in, that looked as if it had bin left there by mistake, like Sandy's nose which we all feel sorry—"

A lump of oily waste shot across at Sam from the edge of the ruddy light, and he dropped personalities. "She was a beauty, boys, no error. I was freeman to old Dick Manners who drove her, for years; and one night just as we was leavin' the sheds with our tea-cans on our arms, the boss came over and told us to be up spry 'n' smart the next mornin' ready for a giddy hour on the May Queen. Sort of job we didn't mind, for it was fairly easy work, no worrying about stations nor lookin' out for signals and special pay. So we turned up about half-past four, a m., as brisk as you like, and 'n' soon after five we was on the foot-plate lookin' her over, with steam buxkin' at the valves up to two hundred, and as fine an engine to play with with she was, too, as ever I want to see."

"Old Dick took her out easy over the Cadover crossing points, then began puttin' her through her paces. First he gave her five miles with the 'expansion gear' half over. She ripped along like a comet; not a wheeze anywhere, no coast; not a wheeze anywhere, no coast; not a wheeze anywhere, no coast. Then he took her backwards, tender first, with the same result. After which he said we'd better-way let her slam on the whole ten miles just to see what she could show for it."

"Well, about eight miles on, there was a bit of line what used to lead around to Meavy through the valley, the points to take it facin' Cadover way; but since the new shortened route was cut it hadn't been used for a long time, and some old gent had bought up a bit of the ground in a very pretty spot some distance off the main line. The rails of this old branch went right through his garden at the back; part of 'em was covered with earth and stuff, and the part that was uncovered he used to be rather proud 'n' showed it to all his friends as a bit of coast; not a wheeze anywhere, no coast; not a wheeze anywhere, no coast. Then he took her backwards, tender first, with the same result. After which he said we'd better-way let her slam on the whole ten miles just to see what she could show for it."

"Whether 'twas through kids foolin' with the points or not we never knew, but I don't 'spos we ever shall, but soon after six o'clock he was down hard in a jiffy, 'n' prayin' for more, but although she wasn't travelin' 'praps more'n thirty or thirty-five miles an hour she was a tidy weight, coal 'n' oil 'n' steam 'n' all that, and he couldn't pull her in less'n ten minutes without a flyin'—there comes a most almighty bump and ructions that nearly chucked us both off the footplate. I looked up sort of 'sod, 'n' old Dick shouted:—"

"Blamey, we've took the old Meavy points!" He shut off the light engine, and I had all the brakes down hard in a jiffy, 'n' prayin' for more, but although she wasn't travelin' 'praps more'n thirty or thirty-five miles an hour she was a tidy weight, coal 'n' oil 'n' steam 'n' all that, and he couldn't pull her in less'n ten minutes without a flyin'—there comes a most almighty bump and ructions that nearly chucked us both off the footplate. I looked up sort of 'sod, 'n' old Dick shouted:—"

A novel scheme has been decided upon for assisting in making Portsmouth impregnable. Upon the sandbanks at the eastern end of Spithead huge concrete blocks are to be laid in such fashion that they will prevent a torpedo-boat, a submarine, or a small cruiser from making a dash for the harbor over these banks at high water. Only one channel will be left open, and ships will have to enter and leave this through a sort of hole in the concrete wall. When the new works are completed, Portsmouth will be absolutely raid-proof. The gap in the concrete wall can, of course, be easily closed against hostile ships, which cannot get into the dockyard except by passing through it. The concrete blocks are now being made at Stokes Bay, and special barges are being built for use in the work of placing these blocks in position. It is understood that this work will occupy two years. When it is completed, the only kind of vessel that can visit the premier naval arsenal will be an airship.

Fine Performance.

Lord Charles Beresford is taking strong steps to keep the Channel fleet "on the top line" in gunnery. But it will be difficult for any of his ships to beat, or even equal, the record established by the cruiser Kent, of the China squadron. During her light quick-firing gunnery test, the Kent fired 107 rounds, scoring 32 hits from her 12-pounders, and 42 rounds, scoring 35 hits, from her 3-pounders. The hop county has reason to be proud of its representative in the British navy, for the achievement of "Beresford" is a remarkably fine one. Some of the guns hit the target with every shot they fired, and the landing was wonderfully smart, averaging 15 rounds per gun for the fifty-five seconds. There must be several of Sir Percy Scott's "pebbles on the beach" among the crew of the Kent.

"Nulli Secundus."

The 1st battalion of the Coldstream Guards was recently presented with new colors by the King, the ceremony being marked by great solemnity and impressiveness.

The battalion was paraded in full dress in a long double line, and the colors were taken from the old colors, and promptly at noon His Majesty came out, dressed in the bushy, scarlet coat, and full uniform of the colonel-in-chief of the regiment, and wearing the ribbon of the Order of the Garter. His Majesty looked exceedingly pleased. He was accompanied by the four colonels of the Brigade of Guards—the Duke of Connaught, Lord Roberts, Lord Methuen, and Sir Frederick Stephenson, the first two also wearing the ribbon of the Order of the Garter.

After the King had inspected the battalion, a solemn march of the old colors was taken. They were placed to left of the line, and the band slowly advanced towards them, playing "Les Huguenots." The minor key of the music and the restrained steps of the men seemed to lend to the far-away troping of the old flags a touch of real emotion. The whole parade, guarded by the colors, and afterwards, guarded by one company, they were marched off the lawn. The battalion then formed three sides of a square, and the drums were piped in. The new colors were brought up and placed against them, and the King, advancing closer to the troops, stood within the fourth side of the square.

The names of the battles in which the Guards have fought, inscribed in the two crimson, red, blue, and golden flags of the old battalion, told how the old motto of the regiment—"Nulli secundus"—has been justified.

As the colors were laid on the drums the chaplain-general of the forces, Bishop Taylor Smith, advanced, arrayed in lawn and scarlet. Standing behind the drums he solemnly dedicated them, praying in a ringing voice that could be heard all over the great garden that "they may never be unfurled save in the cause of justice and righteousness." The colonel of the battalion—Colonel Lambton—kneeling in front of the King, who raised him to his feet, His Majesty then handed the colors over to the two senior subalterns of the regiment, Lieutenants G. B. S. Follett and Lieutenant G. P. Dawney, D.S.O., Addressing the battalion, His Majesty said:

Colonel Lambton, officers, non-commissioned officers and men of the 1st Battalion of the Coldstream Guards: I am very glad as Colonel-in-Chief of the regiment to have the opportunity of presenting colors to this battalion, for although it is not now the custom to carry the colors into action, they still remain and will always be looked upon as the emblem of loyalty to the Throne and country, and also of duty and discipline.

"It is not now necessary for me to touch on the history of the Coldstream Guards, as it is so well known. They have always been in the past with the greatest loyalty and devotion both in peace and war, and I feel sure that in entrusting these colors to this regiment the great traditions of the regiment will be worthily upheld."

The commanding officer replied, "The Gunboat's Prize.

After an exciting chase the Cosmopolite, a swift Dutch schooner, which it is alleged, had been engaged in the smuggling trade off the southwest coast of Ireland, was recently captured by H. M. gunboat Skipjack.

Learning from the coastguards of the presence of a supposed smuggler in Dunmanus Bay, Admiral King, who commands the Irish station from Queenstown, dispatched his own yacht, the Cosmopolite, with a warning, it is believed, by numerous signals along the coast, the suspected vessel made off, and making twelve knots to the Colleen's sight, soon showed the yacht a clean pair of heels. The Skipjack was then ordered to take up the hunt, and aided by mist and thick weather her movements, and was not discovered until he steamed right up to the Cosmopolite.

On board the Dutchman was found a quantity of cigars and scent and $2,000 in notes and gold. The vessel was at once placed under arrest and taken to Baltimore harbor.

The Royal Oak.

The anniversary of the birth and the restoration to the throne of King Charles II. has been celebrated, as also the "miraculous preservation" of the King from his enemies in Boscobel Oak. As is now very generally known, the actual date of this historical event was September, 1651, but for more than two centuries, by common consent, the three great events in the life of the Merry Monarch have been celebrated on the same day.

Oakapple Day in the olden times was a great event. For many years after the Restoration a royal oak was invariably to be found in the civic spectacles of the metropolis. "Going to London," says Evelyn, "my Lord Mayor's show stopped me in Cheapside, one of the pageants representing a greave woode with the Royal Oak and the history of His Majesty's happy escape at Boscobel."

The actual tree in which King Charles hid vanished within half a dozen years of the event, according to the same diarist, for, like hunters, he had the tree cut down for firewood, and the tree was replaced by a paper tree, and such-like trifles. A silver made out of the original tree was given to the University of Oxford by Mrs. Letitia Lane; tables and chairs innumerable claim to be of royal oak, and so do the standards of the army, the communion table at Coward, the frame of the portrait of Charles in Kiplin Hall and snuff boxes all over the country.

The Navy, too, had its share in the celebration, for a 75-gun ship launched in 1664 at Portsmouth was named the Royal Oak. At first the history of this ship promised brilliantly. She was in the battle off Lowestoft, in the battle of the 1st of June, 1666, and in the St. James' Day fight of the same year. But she came to an inglorious end. The Dutch went up the Medway in 1667, burning and destroying everything, and on the 1st of June, 1667, she was captured by the Dutch. The ship was then taken to Amsterdam. The Royal Oak, which was built up on a comparatively shallow water, was scuttled by the Dutch, but being big vessels their sides towered above the water's edge, though their keels rested on the bottom. The fire-ship sailed up alongside of them, and soon they were the centre of a sea of fire, a spectacle as Englishmen ever saw and a disaster never to be wiped off.

Despite this lamentable ending to the first ship of the name, "Royal Oak" has been used seven times since for British ships of war. A name once introduced into the navy list is nearly always retained, partly because of the conservatism of the sea, but more particularly because the name being already in the signal book, its repetition time after time facilitates the work of preparing the signal code. Thus we have to this day warships bearing names that go back to the very earliest days of our naval history. Dreadnought is a name that comes to us from the Elizabethan navy, Royal Sovereign goes back even further to the days of Henry VIII, while the oldest of them all is St. George, a name that we can trace back to Henry III's navy. The present Royal Oak was one of the battleships built under the Naval Defence Act in 1892, and she is serving in commission in special reserve in Devonport.

"Tragic and Glorious."

The unwearied activity of the King in promoting the interests of his subjects was happily illustrated once more Saturday recently, when His Majesty employed a brief holiday in the country to open a new rifle range, and to inspect at Sandringham forty-five veterans of the Crimea and Indian Mutiny. This tribute of honor from their Sovereign to the men who saved India for the Crown fifty years ago will, says the London Daily Mail, drive home the great lesson of Empire Day and remind the nation once more that victory can only be purchased by the faith, courage, and patriotism of its children. The story of the Indian Mutiny is at once tragic and glorious—tragic by reason of the long list of initial calamities with which it opened, and glorious because in it the spirit of the race was put to the severest test and yet rang true. "On no occasion," says the eloquent historian of that conflict, "has the nerve and fibre of our troops, the fortitude and manliness of our countrymen of all ranks, been more conspicuous, often in the face of death itself and under circumstances which would have seemed to justify despair. But with life they never despaired. They endured all that had to be endured with a patience and cheerfulness never to be surpassed."

It was, in a word, the great qualities of the race rather than any individual qualities of leadership that repelled the revolt of the native army. Among the survivors who passed before the King were men who made forced marches in the tropical heat, with scanty food and little water; who followed Havelock to Lucknow; and who fought with Chamberlain before Delhi. The qualities which they then displayed were precisely those which have enabled the British people to do more for the greatest Empire in the world, and to hold it against external attack and internal sedition. England may well be proud of these, the last of her soldiers of the Mutiny.

Removing "Undesirables."

In no big personnel as that of the navy a percentage of "undesirables" is inevitable. But the practice of weeding out "bad hats" that has been consistently followed during the past few years has had an excellent moral effect. The knowledge that a persistent disregard of discipline will lead to dismissal from the service keeps men straighter than fear of "cells," "10 A." or any like punishment would do. And the new regulations governing re-entry will be an additional incentive to good behavior. In future, continuous service men who take their discharge, either to the shore or to the Royal Fleet Reserve, are not to be allowed to re-enter the navy unless they possess good characters. Re-employment of petty officers for "third periods"—i.e., after they have completed time for pension—is also forbidden, except in special circumstances. Men who have special qualifications in various subjects are, however, to have the privilege, as hitherto, of extending their term of service if they wish. In making this latter proviso the Admiralty have had an eye to their own interests—or rather to those of the service—for in the wireless telegraphy and other departments there are petty officers working for small pay whose knowledge of the subjects in which they have specialized would have won good positions for them in private employ.—Pall Mall Gazette.

China's New Army.

After all, the Chinese government does at last seem to have determined upon gradually securing an army trained upon European models, but not by Europeans. The prime movers in the reform appear to have determined upon following Japanese experience, and doing it by means of native officers, trained in Europe upon a single selected system. This system is to be the French and every year 15 selected Chinese young men from the military colleges, already able to speak French fairly well, will be sent to France for six years' service in the French army, of which the first two years will be spent in the ranks and in the non-commissioned grades. The remaining four years will be passed as officers between the staff colleges and regimental duty. Thus equipped with no more veneer of training, but with a deep-seated familiarity with a soldier's life in all its details and aspects, they will return to gradually infuse new life into the Chinese army. At the end of six years there will be 90 of these young men in the French regiments, and it is hoped that at the end of 20 years the system will have yielded a staff corps of picked men.

Knightly Jousts.

There is a remarkable display of "jousting" at Olympia, London, just now, where for the second time the Royal Naval and Military Tournament is being held. The curious part concerning it is that in a measure it is an afterthought.

Originally was intended to represent the capture of the Kashmir Gate at the siege of Delhi. "Susceptibility" is, however, in the air. Somebody discovered this might be inappropriate at the present time with India so unrestful, so the happy second thought of an old world tourney, a "cloth of gold" of today, was hit upon. "Tourney of ye Olden Days" is a very fine spectacle. The Queen of Beauty—and for the first time Eve comes into the tournament—sits with her maids while commoners and doily knights show off their prowess. The lists are put up before our eyes. The many retainers of the great lords and the freemen jostle each other in excited revelry. There is the fool on a mule, the mock and sport of mischievous urchins. The man in motley defends himself with a stout lance, and the fun depends upon their agility in dodging its smart blows.

Also there is quarterstaff play that threatens, if it does not actually bring about, many cracked crowns out in right earnest. Then an old form of tug-of-war, employing a pole instead of rope, is introduced, the pushing and general skirmishing in this causing some fun as well as excitement. Lastly, the gallant knights, in weird panoplies, are set to joust against each other with what to modern eyes look much like telegraph poles. They do not always hit; they scarcely realize the descriptions of Scott, but they make a brave sight all the same.

The new feature of an Army Service Corps competition should prove a great hit. This employs four wagons piled high with military detail. We see camp pitched and struck, and all with a celerity and neatness that commands enthusiasm. The wagons are dismantled, strewn in apparent disorder right and left, and yet at the word of command these smart active youngsters gather up the fragments, and as if by conjuring rather than by alertness and skill, the whole is reconstructed as a flash. It is a revelation as to what this branch of the service can do.

The naval field gun display is not so new, but it never tires. The six great guns are handled as so many toy un-is not appreciated by many furnace manufacturers or the general public as much as it should be.

SUNSHINE FURNACE

THE IMPORTANCE OF THE WATER-PAN

Without the moisture evaporated from the water in the pan, the hot air distributed throughout the house is dry and dusty. Cracks and opens up the furniture—is not fit to breathe into the lungs.

Yet, mind you, some furnace makers place this important water-pan where there is often not enough heat to evaporate the water. Put it out of sight in an awkward position at the side or back, where it cannot readily be filled without being removed—and when filled it would take a juggler to replace it without spilling a big share over himself.

Note the convenient location of the large water-pan of the Sunshine—just above the fuel door. Takes but a moment or two to fill it.

THE AWKWARD COMMON WAY

THE EASY SUNSHINE METHOD

It is placed right in the path of the hot air as it circulates around the dome of the furnace. It is impossible for any heated air to pass out of the registers before extracting its due share of moisture from the water-pan. That means you breathe healthful, clarified air, free from dust and dryness.

For the sake of your furniture, your own health and peace of mind, you should decide on the Sunshine.

If your local dealer does not handle the Sunshine write direct to us for FREE BOOKLET.

CORSET COVER in FRENCH EMBROIDERY

WHILE the woman of refinement is always particular about her lingerie, and likes it to be as dainty and attractive as possible at every season of the year, a special importance attaches to the petticoats and corset covers which summer wear. The heat of summer practically necessitates the use of such transparent flimsy corset covers in almost all the houses in the city of a well-dressed woman.

Now, though underclothing becomes more and more elaborate each year, and lace, beading, insertion and ribbons are made up into striking and exquisite designs, there is a strong reaction in favor of the simplicity that is so well understood by the French. Instead of trimmings that lose much of their beauty after the first laundering, hand embroidery is substituted. This naturally refers more particularly to the corset cover. For it must be confessed few of our busy American women have the time or energy to embroider the yards of flouncing required for a petticoat.

While many forms of the embroidered corset cover are seen—some the ordinary full waist, with just a simple design on the front, in connection with a lace beading; others, for stout women, tight fitting and with no trimming but a scallop and eyelets; still others, made on bias lines, with a surplice effect in front that carries a motif on each side—probably the greatest favorite of the moment is the cover without an opening, that slips on over the head.

This last is a most convenient style for summer, as there are no buttons to show in an unsightly way through a thin frock.

ADAPTED TO STOUT FIGURES

Perhaps women who are inclined to be stout may feel that such a pattern is not for them. Yet there is no reason, if the corset cover is cut off at the waist line, so as not to give extra fullness over the hips, why a large woman should be deprived of this very convenient and easily laundered model. She need not allow quite so much fullness as would her more slender sister, and if a soft-finished nainsook is used, little or nothing will be added to her size.

The design given today shows one of these corset covers that slip over the head, decorated with a peculiarly graceful motif adapted and simplified from an imported model of exquisite French embroidery. The edge is finished with a novel scallop that is arranged at the bust line in the center of the front in a series of graceful curves. The back has only the scalloped edge and the eyelets for ribbon. These oval eyelets, by the way, not only hold the ribbon flatter, but are more ornamental than the round ones.

As can be seen from the working detail, there are no difficult stitches in this work, it being a combination of eyelet and solid embroidery, buttonholing and either a fine stem stitch or outlining. A rather fine quality of white mercerized cotton is used.

The edge is worked in buttonhole stitch, the scallops having first been run with darning cotton on both sides for padding. If a heavier padding is wished, the entire scallops may be covered by a chain stitch. Do the buttonholing closely and firmly, so as to withstand the frequent tubbings.

WORKING THE EYELETS

The oval eyelets around the neck and sleeves, through which ribbon is run to hold the fullness in place, also the round dots in the central medallion and at the ends of the tendrils, are pierced and done over and over. The oval ones should be run around with a thread of the cotton, a lengthwise slit made in each, and the material turned underneath with the needle. This gives a better shape and makes a firmer edge.

The round eyelets are pierced with a stiletto, after first having had a thread run around them. In working this over-and-over stitch, be careful to have the outer edge absolutely even and no deeper than is necessary to hold. Nothing makes "broderie Anglaise" look coarser than to take too deep a stitch.

Work the fleur-de-lis, the scrolls of the medallion and the smaller leaves in satin stitch. This should be first padded with darning cotton. The larger leaves are worked into the central vein. The satin stitch may be either slanted or straight. The latter, however, will be found to be much simpler for the average embroiderer, as the same slant is difficult to maintain throughout. The stems can be done in a fine outline, in the narrow French stem stitch, or in cording stitch. The second is undoubtedly preferable, but takes longer and must be worked very finely if at all. The cording stitch, which has been described several times on these pages, is an effective substitute. It is nothing but a running stitch caught under by a second thread. How it is done can be seen from the stem on the lowest left-hand tendril, where the running stitches and the needle caught through one of them are given.

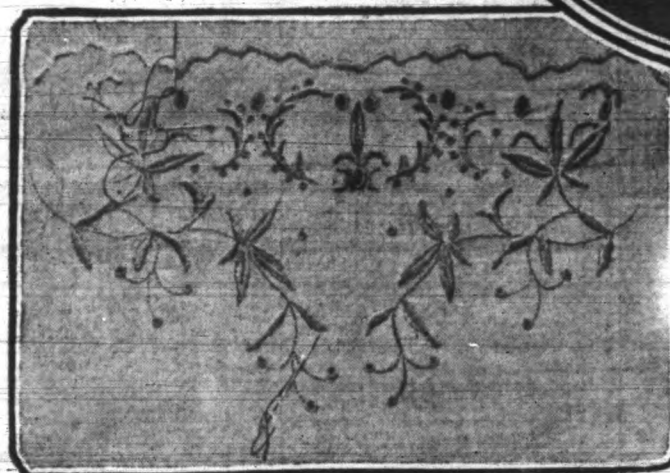

ered at the waist as well as the top, but this means so much more work that the average person is apt to content herself with some of the machine-made headings.

It is a mistake to have a corset cover too sheer. A nice quality of soft-finished nainsook wears well, and may be easily embroidered. About a yard is required for this design, which is drawn for a thirty-six bust.

But half of the back and front could be given. It can be stamped, however, by folding the material with two pieces of transfer paper slipped between, and placed back to back. Put the design on top and trace with a pencil or stiletto.

This same design is equally good for a chemise, or for the top of one of the low-necked night-gowns that slip over the head.

The Completed Corset Cover.

A Working Detail.

Eyelet Embroidery

LAST season it seemed as if the eyelet was waning in popularity; had been done to death, as it were. This year it is enjoying renewed favor, and is more used than ever, both in combination with solid work and alone.

This latter method of treating it is especially effective, and gives a very open, lacy look. In a collar seen recently the border was of large, round eyelets, nearly as big as a dime, arranged so the edges of each touched those on either side. Within this was a series of semi-circles, connected at the bottom by straight lines, all done in eyelets. These eyelets also nearly touched. In the center of each half circle was a conventionalized daisy, with the petals in oval eyelets.

As the eyelets are so much larger than those in ordinary use, they cannot be pierced with a stiletto entirely, but after the first punch is made should be eased with some sharp scissors so the edges may be turned underneath to make a firmer edge. Run all the eyelets before working in order to prevent pulling and work over and over with a close, even stitch. Later the surplus linen underneath may be cut away.

As the eyelet border is not sufficiently firm to wear well, when it is finished and the linen has been trimmed close to the edge, it should be worked in buttonhole stitch, working over the outer part of the eyelet.

With a little practice any woman can arrange very effective designs by using different sizes and shapes of eyelets combined in any desired way.

Shall We Quote?

THE inveterate quoter is almost as bad as the inveterate punster, and both are always with us every question, a witty comment on every incident, and all frankly stolen from authors great and small, is, however, not quite so much a bore as he who twists and tortures your every statement into a double entendre.

Pillow in Tinted Shadow Work

ONE of the most attractive pillow covers seen this season was done on sheer lawn in the tinted shadow work, which is practically nothing but a close back stitch. The graceful design consisted of a large, open basket, with a handle caught by bowknots of ribbon, and the tops filled with conventionalized star-shaped flowers in delicate pastel tints of pink, lavender, blue and yellow, charmingly blended.

The basket was tinted green and outlined, or, rather, made to look like shadow stitch on the outside. To get this effect take a back stitch on the outline and bring the needle out the exact length of the stitch ahead of it; go back and stick the needle down through the material at the forward point of the first stitch; bring it up again, the same distance ahead, go back to the forward point of the second stitch and continue as before.

The open effect in the lower part of the basket was gained by five vertical parallel, narrow, which is the tinted shadow work, and connected by crossed lines in outline stitch. These slats were tinted with pearl and black beads, as were also the bottom and broad, curving top. The ribbon was of the same green as the basket, with French dots running through the center, and the turn in the loops filled in with basket stitch.

The flowers were back-stitched in the color in which they were tinted, and a few long stitches were taken on the outside for shading. The centers of all the flowers were green, the same tone as the basket and ribbon. The cover was trimmed with the new wash ruffling, finished on both edges with lavender, pink and green stripes, and was buttoned at the back so it could slip on and off easily. It was used over a twenty-four-inch pillow covered in white wash silk. Lustrous white satins could be substituted for the silk at less cost.

A Crocheted Breakfast Jacket

FOR the many who like no fancy work so well as knitting or crocheting, the making of one of the dainty breakfast jackets in white Shetland lace, so useful for invalids, is a fascinating employment.

The little wraps are shaped very much like the old-fashioned short dolman, coming just to the waist line in the back and falling in two long points in front. The sleeve is loose and bell-shaped.

The main part of the jacket is done in what is known as crazy-stitch; and the edge is finished with a crocheted beading and fringe. A colored ribbon one-and-a-half inches wide runs through the beading. About a pound of wool is required to knit one of these jackets.

Easily Made Novelties

PRETTY and inexpensive furnishings for the summer home, such as sofa pillows, laundry bags, table covers, round or oblong, may be made of ordinary white crash and odd bits of cretonne that are left from furniture coverings.

The edge of the crash is cut into big scallops, which are tinted half way up in soft shades of pink, blue, green and orange and bound in bias bands of black linen or satin.

Over the surface of the crash are raised medallions of flowered cretonne edged with the black bands and connected by large scrolls outlined in heavy black twisted flax. The bands may be stitched on by machine or can be held with feather stitching in the predominating tint of the cretonne.

A Touch of Color

TOUCHES of colored handwork are marked features of many of the new summer clothes, and the woman who embroiders can have some really charming waists or dainty accessories at little cost.

Thus the frills of the tailored shirt-waist, now so much in evidence, are extremely attractive if the hem is either embroidered in a delicate color or is worked at intervals with satin-stitch dots. The same stitching should be repeated on the turnover collar, on the ends of the butterfly tie and on the frills of the turnback cuff.

The tan or ecru linens are very stunning when embroidered in a different color. Sometimes a simple design, in several shades of brown, is used, or there may be a border on cuffs, collar and belt of big coin dots in white surrounded by a seeded outline in black, or blue or red. The Bulgarian combinations of red, blue and green are very effective on tan or gray linen. Crashes are also good worked in cross-stitch in Persian colors or in soft pastel shades.

It is rather foolish to put very much work on this colored embroidery, since it may be but the fad of a season. Very good effects can be produced with comparatively little work.

When not carried to excess this fault becomes even a virtue, and at least it shows depth and variety of reading. This tendency to quote has long been a characteristic of the "profession," and the actor never lived who could long resist it. It is at all events a strong temptation even to the layman, and perhaps the only thing that holds him from yielding to it is the egotism and vanity it seems to display. Quoting, however, is a disease, and the more one resists it the worse it becomes. In moderation it is a virtue, in excess a vice. It is perhaps at its best in the man who never says the same thing twice, but who, with a dry smile, gives vent to some laughable and perfectly applicable quotation, and at its worst in the bore who has a stock of two or three phrases, which he applies in and out of season without the slightest discrimination. Perhaps the best general rule would be: don't quote until the opportunity is irresistible, and then, above all, refrain from hurting another's feelings by quoting "not wisely, but too well."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

A ROUND-THE-WORLD CURRENT.

The International Sunday School Lesson for June 29th is, "A Temperance Lesson." 1 Cor. 10: 23-33. The Golden Text is, "It is Good Neither to Eat Flesh, nor to Drink Wine, nor Anything Whereby Thy Brother Stumbleth," Romans 14: 21.

By William T. Ellis.

There is a deal of unlabelled Christianity in the world in these days. The tidal-wave of many-named Socialism that seems to be sweeping over the whole earth is, after all, but an expression of the New Testament principle to which the Sunday schools this week give attention. The student unrest in Japan, the revolution in Russia, the spectacular awakening of China, the struggle of Korea for independence, the Swedish movement in India, the mutterings of the "Young Egypt" party, the dominance of Laborism and Liberalism in British politics, and the powerful social ferment in the United States, may all reasonably be interpreted as widely separated aspects of the same underlying sentiment of individual liberty and social interdependence. Occasionally, at least, all of these manifestations to the betterment of the common-welfare and the enlargement of personal rights and independence.

Old-fashioned Up-to-Dateness. Everybody is under obligations to all. That is, broadly stated, the day's platform. "It is good neither to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor anything whereby thy brother stumbleth," is the theme of the present Sunday school lesson. "Let no man seek his own, but each his neighbor's good." Or, again, "Not seeking my own profit, but the profit of the many." There you have what the tract says. It is a dull teacher indeed, who cannot point this lesson with illustrations not a few from the days' news. In truth, the coincidence between the theme of this lesson and the thought of the day is most extraordinary.

The world's Socialism is seeking the goal long ago indicated by inspired pens, even though it know it not. The day's "advanced" thinkers may consider themselves ahead of the old-fashioned Book; but in truth they are only coming up to it. There may be an atmosphere of poverty and progressiveness about expounding the cause of the common weal, as set forth under various names, yet the indisputable fact is that this has been the message of Christianity for centuries. The Christian Church at its purest has presented the nearest to an ideal social condition that the world has ever seen.

Ill-Founded Temperance Teaching.

In the present instance, this big truth, which Jesus embodied in His love and His following, is shown down on the sacred page, as indicated for its bearing upon the temperance question, which once a quarter is designated as the theme of study by the millions of members of the Sunday school. Herein is found the sanest and most unsatisfactory basis for the temperance position. When children are taught, with more zeal than truthfulness, that only bad people ever drink intoxicants, they grow up to learn that the teaching is not true. When they are told that to taste liquor always means to become drunk and ruin the life, they are certain later to discover the falsity of this instruction. When it is represented to them that the drinking of wine is forbidden by Scripture their own intelligent reading eventually controverts the statement. No man can ever know how much temperance instruction has failed to the ground in failure because based upon these unsound foundations.

A Man's Noblest "Right."

But when the Pauline position of noble altruism is taken, "give no occasion for stumbling"—surrendering one's lawful right because it is not expedient or does not build up, then the temperance propaganda stands upon an unshakable basis. Not only has a man a right to give up his own indulgence in any taste, for the sake of his fellowman, but he is concededly noble in the exercise of that right. To do for others, or to do without for others, is magnanimous and brotherly; it is the law of the ideal life.

This is the platform upon which Paul taught concerning a subject analogous to the modern drinking habit, the eating by Christians of meat which had been offered to idols. The meat was nothing in itself; the effect of the eating of it upon one's own conscience, and the conscience of one's fellowman, was the main consideration. "Paul, you see, was a Christian socialist."

There is a higher ground yet, and to it the great apostle ascended. There is a loftier motive for human action than mankind's welfare; a motive, which is really necessary to the sustenance of the latter. This motive is the glory of God. The highest expression of man's good is God's glory. Man is rarely in right relations with man until he is in right relations with God. "Get right with God" is the prelude to getting right with man. A sense of obligation to the Infinite has ever been the most powerful consideration in impelling men to the service of their fellows. This is why Paul carries his teaching a long step farther than mere socialism.

WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

or altruism: "Whether therefore ye eat, or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God." The man who lives by that law will never make a brewer rich or a neighbor poor.

A Naval Man's Theology.

The religious motive is most needed in life. As the famous naval authority, Captain Mahon, said in an address in New York, there is danger of inverting the order of the two greatest commandments. Our time is emphasizing the second, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." But the first really is—and a little thought will make clear why it is the first—"Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart." The life that is right on its Godward side cannot be won on its manward side. Symmetry of character and effectiveness demands that the first shall be first.

All truth is practical; this exalted teaching has a direct relation to the everyday theme of temperance to which the passage from Paul's letter is at present applied. The first and greatest commandment cannot be kept by the person who is glorifying his mind and body by strong drink. The fact in relation to the use of alcoholic beverages which has of late been forced upon my attention. In a year's journey around the world I have noted everywhere the partnership of strong drink with other vices. There is not an evil habit that does not have its ally in the use of opium, which I have not found directly allied with the liquor habit. I have made it my business to see something of all sides of life in many countries, and everywhere I have found intoxicants in close relationship with every open act of flagrant vice, except, possibly, opium-eating.

A Word of Warning.

While preferring to deal with principles as set forth above, rather than with detailed practices, yet I cannot forego this opportunity to suggest a fact in relation to the use of alcoholic beverages which has of late been forced upon my attention. In a year's journey around the world I have noted everywhere the partnership of strong drink with other vices. There is not an evil habit that does not have its ally in the use of opium, which I have not found directly allied with the liquor habit. I have made it my business to see something of all sides of life in many countries, and everywhere I have found intoxicants in close relationship with every open act of flagrant vice, except, possibly, opium-eating.

The meaning of this is portentous. "Where there is drink there is danger." The stimulating glass has been the means of innumerable persons' introduction to even worse habits. The careful parent, who knows the ways of this wicked old world, understands that a tremendous safeguard is removed from his child's character when he or she is permitted to become familiar with the moderate use of intoxicants. This is not temperance fanaticism; it is the most apparent and common sense wordly caution. An introduction to drink is a possible introduction to fates worse than death. This point need not be enlarged upon; the understanding will perceive in the light of their knowledge of the ways of the wicked, its tremendous danger. There is reason for consternation in the fact that the New World is far more given to temperance and total abstinence than the Old. An American is amazed at the amount of drinking that goes on abroad, among all classes of people. Every traveller must have noticed how relatively few are the bottles on the dinner tables of the Atlantic liners, as compared with ships further East. Even more marked is the contrast between the dining cars of America and those of Europe and Asia. We have not the Old World's war against the relatively few who are given to temperance and total abstinence from the habit which hurts society so deeply.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETIES.

AFRICA'S DARKNESS LIGHTENED

These comments on the Uniform Prayer Meeting Topic of the "Young People's Societies" for June 29th, "Christ in Africa," Isa. 43: 1-13.

By William T. Ellis.

Africa is not a country, but a continent. The eyes of all the world are turned to Africa. Too many different nations are concerned in its future to allow its removal from the forefront of interest.

Educational work is especially necessary in Africa because there is no education, properly speaking, in the native African civilization. Education in Africa is purely a Christian exotic, whether it be mental or technical.

Although the condition of woman among pagan Africans is degraded, her daily life is more free and more ennobled by service, by work accomplished, than it is under Mohammedan influences.

There are now as many Christians in the missions of Africa as there were in the whole world at the end of the first century.

Each sphere of missionary work in Africa has an individual character. East Africa is the Indian or Oriental region. North Africa is ancient, mediaeval and modern; it is Christian, Mohammedan and pagan; it is European, Hamitic and Shemitic. South Africa has yielded more rapidly to civilizing influences than any other part of the continent. West Africa is presently the negro belt, and pagan to the core.

The most frequent contact between black men and white in Africa is through (1) the government, (2) the colonist, (3) the missionary. The latter relation is as important as any that exists, and, as a rule, he represents the best, most unprejudiced friend of the native.

The most wonderful of all the missions of Africa is the work in Uganda. The Baganda have been called "the Japanese of Africa." They are marvelously quick in learning and adopting civilization as soon as Christianized. The lives of Bishop Hannington and of Mackay and Pilkington, tell in thrilling romance the story of Uganda's conversion. Alexander Mackay has well been termed the Bayard of African missions, and his life and prayers and those of Pilkington are largely responsible for the marvelous result.

Where less than forty years ago Bishop Hannington was martyred, now one convert in every five is an evangelist to his own brethren or to the "regions beyond."

NEWS AND NOTES

Sunday school periodicals circulated during the past year total more than 250,000,000 copies.

At the World's Fifth Sunday School Convention which met in Rome in May, more than 1,500 delegates were present, representing 73 nationalities.

A recent gift to Princeton by Mr. John H. Converse is that of a residence in Philadelphia to be used by the university as headquarters for students who are to make weekly pilgrimages to the city to engage in evangelistic work on Sunday.

"AN AMERICAN DUEL."

Factory Manager Dodged Compact for Twenty Years But Finally Ended His Life.

The Vienna correspondent of the London Express says that Samuel Zeisler, the manager of a large factory at Budapest, has committed suicide owing to an "American" duel arranged twenty years ago, when Zeisler was serving in the army. He quarrelled with Sergeant Vlakky, and as the rules forbade an ordinary duel, they agreed to draw lots to determine which of them should commit suicide within five years. Zeisler drew the black lot, but as the sergeant soon afterwards emigrated to America he thought it safe not to fulfill the compact. A few days ago, however, Vlakky met him on the street in Budapest and exclaimed: "What are you alive still?" Zeisler begged his enemy to overlook the bargain of the ground that he was engaged to be married. He offered his whole fortune of $7,500 as a ransom, but Vlakky said he had made a fortune in the United States and wanted Zeisler's life, not his money. He added that if Zeisler did not kill himself in thirty days he would shoot him himself. Zeisler thereupon committed suicide with a revolver after writing letters explaining the circumstances. The police are searching for Vlakky, as an "American" duel is a criminal offence, punishable by ten years imprisonment.

BALOON RACING IN A THUNDERSTORM

The spectacle of eleven balloons in the sky moving majestically over the valley of the Thames was watched by millions of eyes in London on a recent Saturday.

First, Tannar's Mammoth appeared from Wandsworth Gasworks, and within a few minutes it was followed by the ten Aero Club contestants for the Harbord cup. They ascended from the Ranelagh Club grounds, Barnes.

The winning post was Goring station in Oxfordshire, and the balloons rapidly travelled southwards before a wind blowing at 15 miles an hour.

A remarkable feat was accomplished by Mr. F. H. Butler, whose balloon, Doodle far Niente, actually grounded within 100 yards of the spot, thus winning the contest for the second year in succession.

Col. Copper, in the Pegasus, made the next best trip, and the Hon. C. S. Rolls, in the Nebula, accompanied by the Hon. Mrs. Harbord, the giver of the cup, was the third.

Mr. Rolls had exceedingly bad luck in attempting to land his balloon before the winning post was struck by a sudden gust of wind and carried three-quarters of a mile farther.

Moore Brabazon, in the Venus, who descended at Basingstoke, got caught in the thick of the thunderstorm, lightning striking the balloon in an alarming manner.

"It is my first experience of ballooning in a thunderstorm," said Mr. Brabazon afterwards, "and I have no wish to go through it again. If we had been struck it would have been all up with us."

The Zenith descended at Hampden, Norris, five miles southwest of Goring, at a quarter of seven in the evening. The Diamond, which was piloted by Prof. Huntington, descended at Goring late on Saturday, while Padre Phipps in charge of Mr. F. Spithard, came down at Andover about the same time.

The Lotus, steered by Mr. Griffith Brewer, descended at Old Basingstoke, far from Mr. Moore Brabazon; and Aero Club IV., with Mr. C. F. Puck in the car, was compelled by the storm to come down near Farnborough.

The Eucharist, which was in charge of Mr. E. Bucknall, is known to have alighted safely at Sherborn St. John, about two miles north-west of Basingstoke, shortly after the dusk.

Mr. J. L. Tannar's Mammoth the largest balloon ever made in England, which was a complete success in trial trip, carrying fifteen persons in the sky.

The Mammoth carried one ad a quarter tons of passengers, flax, and basket nearly fifty miles. It could have easily gone 200 miles with a slight increase in the crew.

This compares favorably with flax charges for haulage.

The balloon passed over Rimond Park, Kingston, Hampton Court, Weybridge, Byfleet, Brockwood, Copham, Common, Hook and descended at Newham Green, about four and a half miles from Basingstoke.

The ease of the descent was surprising. When M. Gaudron caught the big balloon down in a field he contacted with the earth was as light as a kiss. The new-ripping valve, which is 26 feet in length, was a complete success. The balloon divided into four halves and subsided a few yards away from the basket.

The Mammoth's capacity of the proposed record-breaking journey is demonstrated," said M. Gaudron. "When Mr. Tannar and I start for Russia we shall carry thirty passengers, thirteen passengers. It will enable us greatly to lighten the journey."

STRANGER THAN FICTION.

A strangely pathetic reply has been received by the death of a man in the casual ward of a non-bridge workhouse. The man arrived there in the prosecution of his search for his wife, from whom he separated many years ago, and he died through breaking a blood vessel. He told his story to the workhouse master, made inquiries, and ascertained that on the same day a woman had left from a precisely similar cause. It was the same woman. It was the same wife. Both bodies are buried in a grave.—London Globe.

ANCORAGE OF THE WORLD'S NAVIES

Historical Reminiscences of Spithead in Times of Peace and War.

Along the sea wall between Ryde and Sea View there is a keen breeze blowing that whips the waters below into an unending procession of white horses. Although it is a misty day those passing along the wall may discern Portsmouth and Southsea beyond on the mainland. In what the painters call the middle distance are the forts that dominate the entrance to our premier war harbor. Ponderous and inert amid the restless seas, they offer a vivid contrast to the lowline, with its pennon of murky smoke that marks the trail of a destroyer creeping out to the west. The waters that this little greyhound among ships flings back contemptuously from its bows are the waters of an historic anchorage; the assembly ground of the world's navies, Spithead.

They have not always met upon peaceful missions, these warrior ambassadors of the Powers. At the very dawn of naval warfare, Spithead was the scene of a conflict between the fleet of Henry VIII., under Lord Lisle, and the fleet of Francis of France, under d'Annebault. Inclusive in its result, that battle was marked by a great disaster, the loss of the Mary Rose. Sir Edward Howard has once described the ship as "the noblest ship of sail at this hour that I row be in Christendom." But she had a fault; her lower deck ports were too near the water line. Tacking in a strong breeze, with the ports open, and the guns cast loose, she took in an enormous quantity of water, was brought over on her beam ends, and rapidly sank. Her captain and all her complement but thirty-five went down with her. To-day, in the Museum of the Royal United Service Institution, are a few relics of the ship, all that is left to remind us of one of the earliest of the great naval disasters in our history. And in that same museum are relics of another catastrophe similar in many respects—the loss of the Royal George at her moorings at Spithead. The story of the sad event is best told in the simple words of the monument in the churchyard at Portsmouth:

"On the 29th day of August, 1782, his Majesty's ship, the Royal George, being on the heel at Spithead, overset and sank, by which fatal accident about 900 persons were instantly launched into eternity, among whom was that brave and experienced officer, Rear-Admiral Kempenfelt. Nine days after many bodies of the unfortunate floated, thirty-five of whom were buried in one grave near this monument, which is erected by the parish of Portsmouth as a grateful tribute to the memory of that great commander and his fellow sufferers."

The pomp and circumstance of glorious war has found its beginning and its end alike in the roadstead of Spithead. Fleets going out to war, coming back, the victors' hands, and fleets back from the campaign, flushed with victory, fitted with jury masts, the ships' hulls gaping with shot-holes, have all undergone inspection there by the Sovereign. When Henry V. set forth for Agincourt to match a nation to the Dauphin's tennis balls, reviewed his little fleet of twenty-five small ships at Spithead. Before the English and French fleets set out to give battle to the common enemy, the Dutch in 1672, Charles II. and his Queen visited them at Portsmouth. Nearly two centuries later, when the French and English fleets were once more united after a conflict of a hundred years, there were two naval reviews at Spithead, one for the departure of the fleets for the Russian war, the other for their return.

During the last half-century Spithead has seen many famous naval gatherings. In the early days of ironclads there was a visit from the French fleet under Count Bouet-Willameux, and a review at Spithead when such historic vessels as the Black Prince, the Hector, and the Defence lay in the line, and were the objects of conversation among professional men.

The two Jubilee reviews and the Coronation review brought together three wonderful assemblages of the warships of the world. In 1887 there was 109 British pennants flying, 26 armoured ships, and 83 others, besides foreign visitors. In 1897 there were 165 ships, and in 1902 there were 120.

The mere figures give very little idea of the scene to those who were not actually present. Nor do they constitute a record, for at the great naval review in 1814 at Spithead, in honor of the Allied Sovereigns, the Prince-Regent of Britain, the Emperor of Russia, and the King of Prussia inspected a fleet of over two hundred vessels.

There is one last scene in the story of Spithead that no Englishman can view out of account—the passing of Queen Victoria.

The Alberta, with the white ensign at half-mast, and all the assembled warships in similar mourning, the dull, slow booming of the minute guns, the grey-hued clouds of smoke that hung listlessly over the face of the waters; these were the aspects of the great anchorage on a day when it did not rejoice.—H. C. F. in the London Daily News.

REMARKABLE
HAIR

THE EVANS VACUUM CAP is a practical invention constructed on scientific and hygienic principles by the simple means of which a free and normal circulation is restored throughout the scalp. The minute blood vessels are gently stimulated to activity, thus allowing the food supply which can only be derived from the blood, to be carried to the hair roots, the effects of which are quickly seen in a healthy, vigorous growth of hair. There is no rubbing, and no drugs or chemicals of whatsoever kind are employed; there is nothing to cause irritation. It is only necessary to wear the Cap three or four minutes daily.

60 DAYS' FREE TRIAL

The Company's Guarantee.

AN EVANS VACUUM CAP will be sent you for sixty days' free trial. If you do not see a gradual development of a new growth of hair, and are not convinced that the Cap will completely restore your hair, you are at liberty to return the Cap with no expense whatever to yourself. It is required, that the price of the Cap be deposited with the Chancery Lane Safe Deposit Company, of London, the largest financial and business institution of the kind in the world, who will issue a receipt guaranteeing that the money will be returned in full, on demand, without questions or comment, at any time during the trial period.

The eminent Dr. L. N. LOVE, in his address to the Medical Board on the subject of Alopecia (loss of hair) stated that if a means could be devised to bring nutrition to the hair follicles (hair roots), without resorting to any irritating process, the problem of hair growth would be solved. Later on, when the EVANS VACUUM CAP was submitted to him for inspection, he remarked that the Cap would fulfil and confirm in practice the observations he had previously made before the Medical Board.

Dr. W. MOORE, referring to the invention, says that the principle upon which the Evans Vacuum Cap is founded is absolutely correct and indisputable.

An illustrated and descriptive book of the Evans Vacuum Cap will be sent, post free, on application.

The chief social event of the week was the state dinner at Government House on Monday night in honor of Prince Fushimi. Mrs. Dunsmuir arranged for a dance after dinner and with that end in view she invited a large number of people who arrived at 10 o'clock when the dance was started. In addition to the Japanese Prince and his suite, the list of dancing men was augmented by the officers of the H. M. S. Monmouth. The Fifth Regiment band supplied the music and dancing was kept up until after 2 o'clock. The Prince himself did not dance but several of his suite did, while he contented himself with looking on and carrying on conversation with several of the ladies present who spoke French. A

On Wednesday, June 19th, the residence of Mrs. Campbell, Esquimault street, Victoria West, was the scene of a very pretty house wedding, the principals being Miss Annie Grace Campbell and Mr. James Edward Painter, Jr. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Herman A. Carson beneath a great bell of roses. The house was elaborately decorated with roses, carnations and ferns. The bride was handsomely gowned in white silk with veil and orange blossoms and was attended by her sister, Mrs. Frank Dresser, while Mr. Dresser supported the groom. The groom's presents to the bride and bridesmaid were cheques. The young couple received many valuable presents among which were some substantial cheques. The bride's going away dress was of gray with white satin trimmings. Mr. and Mrs. Painter, after spending a few days in Seattle, will take up their residence on Pine street.

On Wednesday night Mrs. Bullen gave a charming dance at the Strathcona hotel at Shawanigan Lake. The many guests left Victoria shortly after 8 o'clock on a train specially chartered for the purpose and after an hour's delightful run the lake was reached. Dancing was kept up until 2. The large verandahs afforded splendid sitting-out places. Miss Thain supplied the music. Some of those there were Mr. and Mrs. Redwell, Mr. and Mrs. Courtney, Capt. and Mrs. Allgood, Mrs. Read, Mrs. R. W. Dunsmuir, Miss Gillespie, Miss Peters, Miss Marion Dunsmuir, Miss Latta, Miss Monieith, Miss K. Gaudin, Miss P. Last Saturday night Mrs. Audain took advantage of an occasion when there were visitors here and gave a most enjoyable dance at Burleigh. The supper table was very prettily arranged with roses and syringa and Miss Thain's orchestra supplied the music. A few of those present were Mr. and Mrs. Hebbden Gillespie, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Pooley, Mr. and Mrs. Genge, Mr. and Mrs. Cassidy, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Dunsmuir, Miss Todd, Miss Eileen Ward, Miss Irving, Miss Eberts, Miss Green, Miss Peters, Miss Little, Miss Elinor Dunsmuir, Miss Perry, Miss Drake, Miss Tilton, Miss Walker, Miss Harrington, Miss Mara, Miss Marion Dunsmuir, Miss Lorna Eberts, Mr. Brown, Mr. Ross, Mr. Macdougall, Mr. D. Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Gore have issued invitations for the marriage of Miss Margaret Arbuckle to Mr. Bernard Heisterman on Wednesday, July 3rd at 3 o'clock, at Christ Church cathedral. There will be a reception afterwards at "Arran" Oak Bay.

Friends of Mrs. Hughes, wife of Captain Hughes, will be pleased to learn that she is making very satisfactory progress at the Jubilee hospital. She was seriously ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Johnson, of New Westminster, came down last night and are staying with Mrs. E. M. Johnson, Fort street.

Mrs. H. F. M. Jones, of Westholme, visited friends in town during the week.

Dr. and Mrs. Proctor leave this evening for a short vacation touring the Sound cities and Portland. They expect to be away about two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Wilson are at Cowichan lake.

Miss Jessie Bell is back from a trip to California.

Mr. Kenneth Gillespie, of Cowichan Lake spent the week at home here.

Mr. Douglas Hunter is home from McGill University from where he is recently graduated as a doctor of medicine.

ELECTION OF NEW DIRECTORS

ANNUAL MEETING OF JUBILEE HOSPITAL

Reports Were Presented Covering the Past Year's Work at the Institution.

The election of four new members and the receiving and adoption of reports from the directors, treasurer and resident medical officer, constituted the business transacted at the seventeenth annual meeting in connection with the Provincial Royal Jubilee hospital yesterday afternoon. A precedent was established by the election of a lady, Mrs. Charles Rhodes, to the board of management. When the nominations were called for, two ladies were named for positions, the rule that anybody who had subscribed $5 to the hospital was eligible, permitting of this departure from the usual practice of confining the nominations to the male sex. The following were nominated: Mrs. Charles Rhodes, Mrs. Machin, H. D. Helmecken, K. C., Alex. Wilson, F. B. Pemberton, and H. E. Newton.

There was a keen race between some of the candidates Mrs. Rhodes, and Messrs. Newton and Pemberton being elected on the first ballot, while Mrs. Machin and Mr. Wilson tied. A second ballot was taken and this resulted in the election of Mr. Wilson. The chair was occupied by the president of the hospital board, James Fortham. At the opening of the meeting the report of the directors was read. In part it was as follows:

The principal work in the upkeep of the premises has been in painting public wards, rooms, kitchens and corridors. This work has just been completed and the present appearance of the hospital is about as good as it can be made in that respect. Arrangements have been made for immediately laying a hardwood floor in the entrance hall. This is far short of what the requirements demand and attention must again be called to the roof and heating system. The directors have been more fortunate lately in the matter of funds, that is they have had more money at their disposal; but the demands upon their resources have also increased to a degree that has rendered their position more difficult than ever before. The Children's Ward has not been opened for the purpose intended in consequence of there being no accommodation for the extra nurses required. Not only is the present accommodation for nurses crowded, but rooms that should be producing revenue are occupied by the staff, which is most unfortunate in view of the fact that numerous applicants for them have of necessity been refused. To meet this emergency a house, situated not far from the hospital, has been rented and will be used as nurses' quarters until proper arrangements can be made. The most pressing needs of the hospital are: Nurses home, additional private rooms, substitution of fire proof roofing for the present shingles entire change in the heating system, a laundry plant and new premises, a maternity home.

In consequence of the magnitude of these improvements and additions the cost has not been accurately ascertained, but a conservative estimate may be placed at $50,000. The directors interviewed the corporation of Victoria and presented a strong case for an increased grant from that source with the result that an additional $2,500 has been promised provided that it is found when all the taxes have been paid for the current year that the sum of $2,500 is available for that purpose. The payment of this increased grant will not cover the cost of treating the city free patients, but furnishes a recognition of the hospital's claim which it is hoped that next year's grant will fully cover. The Women's Auxiliary, Daughters of Pity and King's Daughters have continued their most valuable assistance and the directors wish to state that this formal acknowledgement with thanks does not adequately express their great appreciation and gratification. It is therefore desired to specially thank Hon. James Dunsinuir for coal supplied at an unusually low price throughout the year, which has resulted in a saving to the hospital of some hundreds of dollars. Also, the Times and Colonist Printing and Publishing companies for copies of their daily newspapers, furnished gratuitously for use of the ward patients. The directors are also indebted and thank the Victoria board of trade for use of their rooms for holding meetings.

Following the reading of this report the appended statement from the treasurer's report was read:

In moving the adoption of both reports, Mayor Morley congratulated the board upon the splendid showing it had made during the past term. He hoped that Victorians would soon be able to feel as proud of the hospital building as they were of the hospital staff. He drew attention to the proposed extensions and additions to the building, and expressed the hope that the directors would devote their attention first to repairing and renovating the present building. On behalf of the citizens of Victoria he complimented the board on the efficiency it had shown.

T. H. Smith, who was the president of the hospital board, seconded the adoption of the reports in complimentary terms. The motion carried unanimously.

The resident medical health officer, Dr. Hassell, submitted a long report, which was, in part, as follows: The total number of patients treated this year as compared with last is as follows: In-patients, 1907, 873; 1906, 889; out-patients, 1907, 214; 1906, 223.

The total number of patients treated is less this year than last owing to the less number of out-patients who came up for dressings.

The total collective days stay this year show an increase, as compared with last year, the figures for 1907 are 23,738, and for 1906, 22,263, an increase of 1,475 days.

The daily average number of patients was 65.11 as against 61 for 1906. The cost of maintenance this year was $38,992.57, last year it was $36,772.59. Notwithstanding the increased days stay and the consequent increased cost of maintenance, the daily average cost per diem, per patient, was the same as last year, $1.64.

The increased expenditure includes the cost of painting public and private wards, kitchens, and corridors, new floors in some private wards, a food wagon, extensive repairs to the outdoor ambulance, new stoves in the medical kitchen and children's wards, as well as repairs incurred by the severity of the weather during the past winter.

The demand for accommodation in the private rooms has been so great during the past year that many patients have had to be refused admission. I would urge upon the board, the necessity of providing increased accommodation for this class of patients. The Women's Auxiliary, the Daughters of Pity, and the King's Daughters are as ever, invaluable as auxiliaries in the work of the hospital. Regular services have been held on Sunday afternoons in the men's dining-room by the clergy of the city. The patients have enjoyed the weekly concerts given after the services, and arranged mainly by the kind efforts of Wellington Davison and A. Longfield, whom I would specially thank, together with those ladies and gentlemen who so ably contributed to the success of these occasions. I cannot refrain from again expressing on the part of myself and the staff our extreme appreciation of the kindness and good will shown to the hospital at Christmas time by the aid societies, who induced the various musical organizations to give concerts at the hospital, which societies and other individual friends are duly thanked and mentioned in detail in the annual report of the Women's Auxiliary Society. The experience of the very prosperous year just closed, has enforced one lesson, very important to all institutional work and service—that a steady adherence to these fixed principles, which alone control, duty and conduct, irrespective of individuals, or of prejudice, is the only rule by which a fitting standard can be upheld satisfactory to the public conscience, and productive of that blameless and irreproachable record as an institution, which this hospital is rapidly earning, and which it is the aim of your officers and staff to maintain.

H. D. Helmecken, K. C., moved that this report be adopted, and A. Wilson seconded the motion. Mr. Helmecken referred to the good work done by the medical officer and the staff, and the motion, upon being put, was carried. There was only a small attendance at the meeting, which was held in the council chamber at the city hall.

The German used to be reckoned the greatest smoker on earth. He is no longer. The Belgian smokes 4.2 lbs. of tobacco yearly; the inhabitant of the United States 3.5 lbs.; while the German's share is only 3.4 lbs. The Briton is really a most moderate smoker, 1.56 lbs. lasts him a year.
